Washington, May 2 .- (Special.)-The mem-

the democratic senators, have completed their work and expect to report their amendment to the senate within the next forty-eight hours. While there will be a number of minor changes made at the instance of individual senators, the chief trouble has been to fix the sugar schedule income tax in a less drastic form than that Senator Jones, of Arkansas, has been the moving spirit in this work. Through him it is learned tonight that the new sugar schedule would provide for a duty of 40 per cent ad valorem, together with a spe-eific duty of 1/4 cent a pound. On sugars house provided for specific duty. This was satisfactory to the sugar planters, but not to the refiners of sugar. The new schedule is satisfactory to the refiners, and substantially so to the sugar planters. These latter would like to have the ad valorem duty placed at 45 per cent, though they prefer specific duties. It is altogether probable that the schedule which will be reported will be the one adopted by the senate. It is likely that in defense of the interests of the sugar planters a discrimination duty of 1-10 cent will be imposed on sugars from countries that pay an export duty, such as Arrange Raffles. Washington, May 2.-By unanimous consent, a bridge bill was passed, at the instance of Mr. Quay, and a bill to include some of the outlying suburban towns in the customs district of New York, at the instance of Mr. Hill.

The senate bill for the sup-pression of the lottery traffic through national and interstate commerce and the postal service was, on motion of Mr. Hoar, taken from the calendar for consideration. A protest was made by Mr. Vest against the extension of anti-gambling laws to religious fairs, where articles are raffled off for charitable purposes.

To a question by Mr. Gray, whether church members should be exempted from the operation of the law, Mr. Vest replied that if any senator thought that church and charitable fairs should be placed on the same footing as the Louisiana or the Havana lotteries, he was welcome to his cpinion; but he thought the question hardly wor-thy the senator from Delaware. Mr. Gorman coincided with the views expressed by Mr. Vest and suggested that the bill should be laid over until there was more into effect January 1. This will give the bot nty provided by the McKinley law to time to consider it. Mr. Hoar remarked that no officer, he supposed, would interfere with church or char-ity fairs. Whether officers should do so or not, was a question which might be discussed; but no provision of law could be made that would pro-

"That cannot be done," said Mr. Gorman "Then I object," said Mr. Harris, and the bill went over without action. The tariff bill was then, at 12:35 o'clock, taken up, and Mr. Quay, who was entitled to the floor, said he would yield it for the day to the senators from Massachusetts and Washington, Messrs. Lodge and Squires. Both senators delivered prepared speeches against the bill.

BELL'S BILL FOR RELIEF.

He Wants a Committee Appointed to Relieve the Idle Men of the Country. Washington, May 2.-Mr. Bell, populist of Colorado, introduced in the house today a joint resolution to provide for the appointment of a committee to devise means for the employment of the idle men of the country, restrict immigration, start up the mines, increase the currency and to prohibit the the issue of interest-bearing bonds without the authority of congress. A preamble to the resolution cites the condition of the matters covered by the resolutions and says that it is manifest from the census of 1890 and 1890 that by the stopping of free coinage of silver and other special legislation in favor of organized capital the great agricultural class had been impoverished and hopelessly incum-

Exciting Riots in Cleveland and Some Heads Are Broken.

SEVERAL BUILDINGS ATTACKED One Squad of Officers Is Penned Up by the Crowd.

CLUBS ARE USED WITH EFFECT

The Workmen Have Prepared Dynamite Bombs for De'ense-The Situation Is Grave, Indeed.

Cleveland, O., May 2 .- After the riotous demonstrations of May day the police department awoke to the necessity of prompt action, and it was determined to disperse any gathering that threatened trouble. This attitude on the part of the police seemed to anger the men and they were in a very ugly mood this mcrning. There was a gathering at the public square, as there has been daily for the past two weeks, and then a start was made out Ontario street, presumbaly to interfere with a squad of forty street cleaners. Thirty-five officers were sent after the men in the patrol wagons and they charged the mob and scattered it. Several heads were broken in the melee. A crowd of several thousand men then invaded the manufacturing district in the "flats." The workmen were driven from the Standard paint works, and then an attack with rocks and clubs was made on the Variety iron works. The building was badly used up, but the employes escaped. Then the Upson bolt and nut works were attacked. A loaded train of coal cars were on the track near by. The crowd mounted upon the coal and bombarded the Upson works. For a time it looked as if these buildings would be demolished. At this point the crowd began to become frenzied and the noise made struck terror through the entire flats. Most of the crowd carried clubs, and as a body the men had an ugly appearance.

Howling for Revenge.

On Scranton avenue, near the Cleveland, Canton and Southern tracks, the crowd gutted a scrap iron warehouse, some of them becoming possessors of dangerous weapons thereby

The police who had charged the mob on Ontario street went to the Upson nut works, and no sooner had they taken possession of the works than an angry mob, numbering thousands, surrounded it, and howled for revenge. All the police at the eighth precinct were called out when it was learned that the rioters had permed thirtyfive policemen in the Upson works. Learning that a reinforcement of officers were coming, the crowd turned its attention to Faulhaber's furniture factory, on Scranton avenue, and broke all the windows. They were about to loot the place when the extra police arrived and chased them down the street. The police, headed by Captain English and Captain Burns, chased the crowd down to Abbey street bridge, and the crowd took possession of the bridge and began throwing stones and bricks at the Few Americans in the Crowd. The police, with drawn revolvers, backed up by the patrol wagon and charged, whereupon the mob fled in all directions. The police pursued and took in charge all they could get hold of. There were few English speaking people in the mob. It was a rabble composed almost entirely of foreigners. There were fully 4,000 of them when the crowd was at its greatest length. It dwindled rapidly, however, when the police got to work.

Assemblies Are Forbidden. Mayor Blee issued a ploclamation during the afternoon calling upon all citizens to refrain from assembling together for purposes of riot and disorder and states that all the powers vested in the city government will e used to enforce the law and maintain order. The mayor also held a consultation with the officers of the Fifth regiment, and as a result six companies of the regiment, together with the Cleveland Greys and the City Guards, were ordered to assemble in their armories, subject to calls for service by the mayor. During the afternoon another mob visited the works of the United Salt Company, and drove the men from their work. The rioters then proceeded to the Cleveland rolling mills, where they had a conflict with the police. There was about ten minutes of flerce clubbing and then the crowd gave way and scattered in every direction Seven of the rioters, all with broken heads, were arrested. The Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling railway contractors, at work in Brooklyn village, have placed charges of dynamite in the hills surrounding their works and connected them with electric batteries. Dynamite bombs have also been prepared for the defense of their workmen. Fearing trouble during the evening squad of 150 ponce was stationed in the public square to prevent any gathering there. The people of the city are filled with fear tonight that the mob will resort to the torch or dynamite and attempt to destroy facories and private residences.

The scarcity of coal has practically thrown many dealers out of business, as they cannot get a pound from the mines. As an instance of the scarcity, fifty cars of coal from an Illinois mine were sold yesterday at $3.25 a ton on the cars. Two weeks ago the same grade could have been bought for $1.65 per ton. This advance, however, is exceptional, the general advance being 50 ents a ton. The only source of supply at present is in West Virginia and Kentucky, where the mines are not much affected. The dealers here have notifled all their customers to use just as little coal as possible. The situation, however, is critical.

· SWIFT JUSTICE. Lawrence Spiller Convicted and Sentenced to Death.

Staunton, Va., May 2.—The trial of Lawrence Spiller, charged with the murder of Lottie Rowe, was concluded this morning at 10:30 o'clock. It was a tragic scene in the bloody drama when the commonwealth's attorney, Meade F. White, bade the burly blacksmith stand before the jury, pull off od-stained piece of the garment into a square hole in the prisoner's shirt sleeve. It corresponded in shape with the texture of color. It was a clearly arranged climax. Spiller's paramour. Rosa Brown, had testified that she, at the prisoner's command, had cut the cloth from the shirt that the prisoner had on. The defense offered no witness and the case was given to the jury without argument. They retired and returned in three minutes with a verdict of murder in the first degree, which the prisoner received stoically.

The usual motion for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was contrary to law and evidence was overruled by the court. Mr. White, who, since Sunday morning, with ceaseless activity and unerring aim has pushed the commonwealth's case, asked for an immediate sentence.

Judge Chalkley in delivering the sentence asked the prisoner: "You have had a fair and impartial trial by a jury of your countrymen; have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced now?" The prisoner replied, "No."

The judge then added: "The sentence of the court is that you be taken from the courthouse to the city jail and be there confined until the 8th of June, and that you be taken thence and hanged by the neck until you are dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

The state law requires that a prisoner is not to be executed until at least thirty days after sentence. As the prisoner sat down he said in a spirit of resignation rather than bravo:

"Well, death does not come but once, and I may as well go now as at any time." He asked Sheriff Watts for a drink of whisky from the bottle found at his home, and upon being told that it was in his boots, which were used as evidence in the trial, said: "I don't care for the boots, but would like to have a taste of that whisky." As the prisoner was led back to the jail he passed the West Augusta Guards, and bowed to them, saying: "Goodby, gentle-

London, May 2.- The international bimetallist conference was formally opened in the mansion house today. The opening address was delivered by ex-Lord Mayor Sir David Evans. A large number of delegates were present, including some of the best known his coat, show his undershirt, and fitted a of the British and foreign financiers. Among them were Sir William Houldsworth, member of parliament; W. L. Lidderdale, exgovernor of the Bank of England; Sir David Barbour, ex-secretary to the India councll; Henry Chaplin, member of parliament; Samuel Montague, member of parliament; Brooks Adams, of Boston, Mass.; M. Vandenberg, president of the Bank of Netherlands, Amsterdam; G. M. Boissevain, of Amsterdam: Alphonz Allard, of Brussels; George DeLavelleye, of Brussels; Henri Cernuschi, of Paris, president of the French Bimetallic League; David Murray, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Adelaide, South Australia, and president of the South Australian Bimetallic League; Hugh M. Matheson, alderman, and Sheriff Dimsdale, a London banker; Thomas Salt, late president of the bankers' institute; Sir Malcom Fraser, agent general in London for Western Australia, and A. J. Balfour, exchief secretary for Ireland.

Letters were read from Archbishop Walsh, of Dublin, the president of the Bank of France, and others, regretting their inability to be present. A paper was read by Pro-fessor Shield Nicholson on the fall in the general level of prices in relation to the appreciation of gold and the divergence in the relative value of gold and silver, and a gen-eral discussion of the subject followed. The conference was presided over by Lord Mayor Tyler, Cablegrams were read from United States Senators Sherman, Voorhees, Aldrich, Mur-phy, Brice, Platt, Davis, Carey and Cullom wishing success to the conference in the cause of bimetallism in England. A. J. Balfour, in the course of the dis-cussion, said he did not believe the government regulation of coinage, if it were done in the direction of making it more stable and a fairer measure of value, could be jus-difiably opposed. The nations of the world were now, he said, standing face to face with a great danger which could only be averted by the rehabilitation of silver to its proper commerci function. In order to do this international action was absolutely necessary. Balfour said that there were three questions with which bimetallism had to cope. They were these: Was a double cope. They were these: Was a double standard possible? Was it just? Was it expedient? Scientists and economists answer these questions with an overwhe ing "Yes." He would not say whether the closing of the Indian mints was a wise step, but he did not doubt that it was the most striking attempt that a civilized government had ever made to solve a monetary difficulty that was directly due to monomet-

Mr. Balfour said he saw signs of a change in English opinion. The leading commer-cial men had abandoned their form of hos-tility to bimetallism and come to the conclusion that the only way to meet the grave danger was to restore silver to its former place as a circulating medium.

Mr. Balfour also said it was a mere dream to suppose that each state was able to regulate its own currency independently. It was absurd to talk of taking an isolated view of British currency when the action of the United States, which had not been taken into concert with or from any friendly feeling toward Great Britain, had forced upon England and India the adoption of the astounding system which now prevailed in India. England's present iso lation was selfish and stupid. He spoke personally and for no party, he, said. Leonard H. Courtney, member of parlia-nent, read a paper on "The Practicability of Maintaining a Ratio Between Gold and Silver Under an International Bimetallic Agreement," and a discussion of the paper followed. Letters in support of bimetallism were received from General Francis A. Walker, Archbishop Walsh and Professor E. B. Andrews, of Brown university.

A letter was read from Mr. H. H. Cannon, president of the Chase National bank, of New York, in which the writer said that the solution of the problem of bimetallism rests with Great Britain. Dr. Arndt, the eminent German financier expressed views similar to those containe in Mr. Cannon's letter without finding the fugitives. This morning, however, Overman was arrested by Chief Phillips just as he was starting for Savannah on a Savannah, Florida and Western train. Overmañ was caught through a description furnished by the father of the girl. She was placed in the charge of some ladies temporarily or until her father returns here. In the municipal court today, Overman claimed that he had not abducted the girl, but that she came off by her own free will and accord, and that they were to be married as soon as they could get to some place where they would be granted a license. He says he has lived near the Marr place for years and has for a long time made his home with the old man. He and the girl made up their minds to marry, and Sunday afternoon, while the old folks were away, they left the house and walked ten miles to Folkston on the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad, where they intended to take the train for Savannah. They were afraid of being followed by the girl's father, and so took the first train that came along, which put them in Jacksonville early Monday morn-

Overman met up with another acquaintance, William Petty, who lives on Stonewall street in Brooklyn suburb, and he took the girl to Petty's house. He remained there until last night and then decided to leave for Savannah. He declared that his intentions were perfectly honorable toward the girl, and he was worried because he could not learn where she was. He begged the judge not to let her go back to Petty's place. For, said he, "Petty is a bigger rascal than I am, and after the way he acted toward Ella yesterday, I would be afraid to let her go with him." Overman refused to tell the judge how much money he had. He said, "I have enough to take me where

Dave Belasco Sues a Lard Dealer for New York, May 2 .- (Special.)-A motion was made before Justice Lawrence, in the supreme court chambers today, to require David Belasco, the theatrical manager, to file a more specific bill of particulars in his suit for $65,500 against N. K. Fairbank and Louise Dudley Carter. N. K. Fairbank, the first defendant, is a Chicago lard refiner, and is reputed to be worth several millions. Louise Dudley Carter, the other defendant, is an actress known on the stage as Mrs. Leslie Carter. She is the divorced wife of Leslie Carter, a prominent and wealthy Chicago lawyer,

In the brief particulars of the suit that appear in the papers on file, it appears that Belasco alleges that he prepared Mrs. Carter for the stage at the special instance of Mr. Fairbank. He alleges that he spent sixteen months preparing Mrs. Carter for her debut, and also that he spent/considerable time in aiding in the writing and staging of the play, "Ugly Duckling," in which Mrs. Carter starred. It is on these services and expenses incurred therewith, that Belasco bases his claim for $65,500. The suit will prove a great surprise to theatrical people and the men-about-town, among whom it has been considered that Belasco and Mrs. Carter were on friendly terms. Justice Lawrence reserved his decision as to the bill of particulars.

TESTING THE LAW.

A Case Started Which May Clear Up the Doubt. Columbia, S. C., May 2.-(Special.)-The supreme court. Today P. A. Wilcox, attorney, representing J. L. S. Brunson charged by Mayor Hursey, of Florence, with illegal whisky selling, secured from the supreme court a writ of hebeas corpus returnable next Monday. Mr. Wilcox also obtained an order from the court requiring the mayor and city council of Florence to show cause why they should not be enjoine from granting licenses for the sale of li-quors. This will also be argued on Monday. It is confidently believed that these cases will present issues to the court, the deci-sion of which will make clear the present uncertain status of the liquor law, as well as declare the act of 1893 unconstitutional.

Scathing Which Is Greeted with Applause from the Audience. Montgomery is not near so much of a cuckoo cage as The Advertiser would have it appear. A Joe Johnston club was organized here tonight and it is a large and an enthusiastic organization. Ex-Mayor E. S. Stark, of Selma, was the speaker of the occasion, and he made a strong and vigorous talk. He called attention to Johnston's strong points and likened him to Senator Vance. He spoke of Johnston's war record, his business record, his record for morality, his consistency, as a gentleman, a husband, a Christian, a soldier and a democrat. He said Johnston had nothing in the past to explain and his friends challenged anybody to show any flaws in his record. Mr. Stark dared anysquarely on the democratic platform. He explained the necessity of having a business governor at this time, such a one as Johnston would make. The speaker said Montgomery ought to be for Johnston, for Johnston's friends had nominated Montgomery's candidate, Jones, and it was but just that the favor should be returned. Colonel Stark, in closing, stated that he was convinced that Johnston had a lead pipe cinch on the nomination anyhow, and he thought Montgomery had as well fall into line. In one instance the speaker incidentally mentioned Senator Morgan's name and the audience almost shook the foundation of the building with their cheers. Colonel Starks's roast of The Advertiser and of its doctored report also called for vigorous applause: Colonel G. W. Hewitt, of Jefferson, the old war horse of the Alabama democracy, was called on and made one of his characteristically strong speeches. The meeting was composed of representative business men, men with intelligent faces and clean collars. It was a gathering that Captain Johnston may well feel proud of.

TWO ASSOCIATIONS FALL OUT.

The United Wants Revenue from the Southern.
Chicago, May 2.—The United Press today Chicago, May 2.—The United Press today filed in the circuit court of Cook county a bill to restrain the Associated Press from continuing to collect from the Southern Associated Press the moneys due to the United Press under the tripartite agreement executed October 24, 1892, between the Southern Associated Press, the Associated Press, the Associated Press and the United Press and the ated Press and the United Press and to compel the Associated Press to pay to the United Press those moneys which have been so collected and withheld. The bill asks that a receiver or new trustee be appointed to collect and pay over to the United Press the moneys that may in the future become due and that the Southern Associated Press may be released from paying to the Associated Press any of the moneys belonging to the United Press. oneys belonging to the United P This complaint is the outcome of a dif-ference which arose a year after the ex-ecution of the tripartite agreement, when the Associated Press refused to continue to pay to the United Press its share of the pay to the United Press its share of the moneys received from the Southern Associated Press. The Southern Associated Press was appealed to, with the result that the Associated Press resumed the payments to the United Press, but shortly afterwards discontinued them.

The United Press bases its claim upon collateral agreements which were entered into about the time the tripartite agreement was executed and upon the fact that at the time the compact was adopted it ceded all of its southern business to the Southern Associated Press.

Twenty persons in all are employed by the firm of Jolly & Son, and of these, four men and one woman were working in the cellar when the explosion took place. Washington, May 2.-When the cases Carl Browne and Christopher Columbus Jones were called in the police court this morning Coxey was in court and a warrant was served upon him charging him with the same offenses as are alleged against Browne and Jones. Shorn of its verbiage and technicalities, the accusation is trespas upon the capitol grounds and damaging the shrubbery and lawns. Coxey was surprised at his new trouble. All pleaded not guilty and demanded jury trial. At the request of their counsel the cases were ned until Friday to give time for preparation. Browne's bond given last night was still in force and was sufficient for him. Frank Hume, a well-known wholesale grocer of Washington, gave bond in $500 each for Coxey and Jones, and they were released. Inside the bar of the court were a number of well-known populists. They were con gressmen Baker, of Kansas; Lafe Pence, of Colorado; Boone, of Minnesota, and Kem, of Nebraska. Adjutant General Tarsney of Colorado was also present and Mrs. Olivia Briggs, the writer, was another spec-

An old law, long forgotten, has resurrected and its application to Coxey is suggested. It prohibits bringing into the district people without means of livelihood or who are liable to become charges upon the public. The penalty, not less than $25 nor more than $50 for each offense, is made a lien upon such boats, horses, wagons or other means of transportation as may be used to bring the interdicted people into the district. Several thousand dollars' worth of Coxey's fine stock was used for this purpose and this is where the application high fence and the canvas brought with them the commenwealers have sheltered themselves from the sun, but not from the rain when it comes. The men roamed about the city at will today and three or four of them were arrested, one for begging, and the others for drunk and disorderly conduct. All got a few days in the workhouse. Galvin's Men Get Another Meal.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 2.-Colonel Gal vin's army of commonwealers encamped in Wheeling last night and breakfasted this on bread, potatoes and coffee, furnished by the city, while various butchers furnished dressed beef. The men probunced it the best meal since they left California. The trades and labor assembly have interested themselves in the cause and will try and raise $150 by tomorrow to pay the fare of the army to Pittsburg, a onecent a mile rate being made by the Balti-more and Ohio railroad. In an interview today Galvin declared that when the army arrives at Washington he expects the gov-ernment to furnish them rations. The army received about fifteen recruits here.

Health Officer Hammett has made a re-port to the district commissioners condemn-ing the lot on which Coxey's army is en-camped, as a place likely to breed disease. He says that with so large a body of men assembled in such an enclosure, with the probability of increased aggregation, fear may be entertained of an outbreak of typhus fever, or malarial and catarrhal dis eases, also that isolation would be imposrecommends that the army should be mov-ed to a place provided with shelter and suggests the Ivy City race grounds as a suitable place.

"SLIDE, KELLY, SLIDE," The Commonwealer Plays First Base

in a Game in DesMoines. DesMoines Iowa, May 2.—This afternoon eneral Kelly became Captain Kelly and led nine picked men from his army to Ath-letic park to contest with the DesMoines Stars, a local ball team, of considerable rep-utation. Kelly played first base. The committee on transportation appointed at Friday night's meeting, today received from the officials of every road which could carry the army to the Mississippi river positive refusals to make any rate less than full passenger fare.

There, of course, remains General Master Workman Sovereign's plan to have the Knights of Labor and the American Railway on force the roads to make special rates to General Kelly's men or submit to being tied up. After his radical utterances of Tuesday night, when he boldly threatened a general strike, Mr. Sovereign subsided, and has persistently refused to talk to press The statement that the American n would affilitate with the Knights of Labor in the strike, was denied today by President Debs. The novelty of deding the army has worn off, and the citizens' committee is becoming disheartened at the prospect that Kelly will make a prolonged stay. It is probable that vigorous measures will be taken in a few days to compel him to draw his visit to a close. Twenty men are now seriously sick at camp the result of continued exposure, The trades and labor assembly will meet tomorrow morning and march in a body to the statehouse to demand that Governor Jack-son secure a train for Kelly's army.

The speaker asked how that presented of privileges. Those people wer violating the law.

Mr. Johnson responded that he believed it be a question of the very highest privi

The speaker suggested that the matter could be investigated in the police court or other tribunals established for that purpose, but the resolution did not present a question of privilege.

Mr. Johnson asked unanimous consent for immediate consideration of the resolution but this was refused by several members The committees were called for reports, after which the house went into committee of the whole, Mr. Hatch in the chair, for the consideration of the bill reported from the Dockery commission for the reorganization of the accounting branch of the treasury department. By agreement general debate was limited to two hours. Mr. Dingley, a member of the commission reporting the oil, explained it, showing briefly the necessity for and expediency of the bill, in order that the cumbrous system of accounting now in vogue might be super-seded by one in harmony with modern methods of business and the affairs of the governmetn expedited.

No change was made in the bill, and at 3:45 o'clock, the committee rose. The bill was reported favorably, and was passed.

Mr. Catchings moved that the house again go into committee of the whole, and take up the river and harbor appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1894, wbich was agreed to and Mr. Hatch resumed the chair. By consent, the first reading of the bil was dispensed with, and Mr. Catchings asked that the committee proceed at once to the consideration of the bill by sections under the five-minute rule, but Mr. Reed objected.

The chair asked Mr. Catchings if he destred to address the house, and was told he Mr. Reed remarked that some statement should be made to the house of the scope of the bill, and upon the suggestion of Mr. Catchings, the report of the committee accompanying the bill was read. This, Mr. Catchings said, contained about all he could say in a general way about the bill.

Mr. Catchings and Mr. Grosvenor, in ex-planation of the bill, answered numerous juestions from various members. course of the bill was $9,431,639, based upon estimates by the engineer corps, amounting to $38,770,611. Lawrenceville, Ga., May 2.-(Special.)-Mr. W. T. Perry, of Carl, this county, died last night at 7:30 o'clock. He has been very low for a week or more. Mr. Perry was one of the most prominent men of Gwinnett, and one of the wealthlest. He was the largest land owner, having about 6,000 acres of the best land. The pretty little town of Carl has been built almost exclusively by him; that part of the county will feel the loss of this big-hearted citizen, who was at the head of every enterprise in that sec-tion. He was as liberal to schools and which was spent in the erection of the High school building at Auburn, and was counted to subscribe largely to the college they expect to build there soon. He is held in high esteem by all the people in the ounty and especially in that vicinity. His last sickness was principally due to his efforts to accommodate a needy old man in his neighborhood. Mr. Perry was a county commissioner. He carried $20,000 on his life, but had allowed $5,000 to lapse a short time before his death. The other didn't like the change of climate and after a few hours' stay in the city returned to enjoy the liberty of his native heath up in Murray county.

Their crime adds another chapter to the long-continued story of bloody deeds and midnight horrors.

Last Saturday night it was, just about the nembers were hanging in the balance here before the United States court, five men rode up to the house of I. H. Montgomery, who tills the fertile glebe of Murray, and demanded admittance This was refused and they emphasized their demand by emptying the contents of several pistols in his direction. But these lodged harmlessly in the side of the house In the meantime Montgomery had taken refuge under his bed. The gang, however, was determined, and bursting in the door, seized and dragged him out in the road. Here a castigation, according to the code of whitecapism, was duly administered

At the point of a pistol he was forced to lie down and assume a position convenient to castigation. Each of the white caps took a turn and each of them gave fifteer ashes with a well-seasoned cowhide. Montgomery recognized two of the men, and accordingly Dave Weaver and Arthur Wofford were arrested by the deputy mar shals yesterday. They were brought to Atlanta at once and carried before Judge Nash Broyles for pre-liminary hearing.

It was at this juncture that Wofford decided to leave. Attorney Joe James had delivered one of his flery speeches, in which he painted up the white cap evil in all its hideousness. He declared that if it was in his power the very name of the white caps would soon be a thing of the past. Wofford listened attentively to this part of the argument and appeared deeply im-pressed. At the conclusion he asked for a drink of water and under the escort of Deputy Maulding went in the adjoining room to get it. The place was crowded with witnesses and one of them called the deputy aside to ask some questions about the case. Wofford lost no time in taking advantage of the occasion, and with all due deliberation gave the crowd the shake When the deputy looked ground Wofford had disappeared and a thorough search failed to reveal his whereabouts. All of the marshals were notified of the escape but to no avail, Wofford was gone glimmer

This morning he is probably enjoying the exhilarating breezes of Murray and hiding out safe in some mountain retreat. Marshal Dunlap will instruct his deputies to exert every effort and if possible the white cap will be recaptured.

MUST NOT MARRY FOREIGNERS. Carnot Serves Notice on the Officials in the Diplomatic Service.

Paris, April 28.—President Carnot has signed a decree forbidding French diplo-mats, consuls and consular agents to marry without the consent of the minister of for eign affairs. Any infraction of this decree will be punished by the dismissal or recall of the offender. It is explained at the foreign office that the marriages of the representatives of the French government to foreigners are be-coming more frequent, and it may affect the position of those already having foreign wives, but it is not aimed at America. Premier Casimir-Perier also explains distinctly that the president's action is not due to the number of Americans who have married Frenchmen, but it is in consequence of the marriage of French representatives to women of other nationalities who are objectionable to the French government Diplomatic Circles Agitated.

The 'president's decree, however, has caused a sensation in diplomatic circles and elsewhere. It revives and extends the measure passed over sixty years ago, which af-fected the consular service alone and in spite of the explanation of Premier Casimir-Perier, it is regarded as curious that the decision was taken so soon after the marriage of M. Jules Patenotre. It is also significantly remarked that the wife of Count Daunay, the hero of the recent diplo incident at Copenhagen, is also an American.

Premier Casimir-Pierier's report said em phatically that the personal position of the members of the diplomatic service was so closely allied to their official mission that it was imperative that the foreign minis ter should control their marriages, as delter should control their matriages, icately political considerations often after-ward arise which the diplomats themselves are not always able to estimate. The premier then proceeds to covertly suggest that the removal of a diplomat may be rendered necessary by the fact of his resdence being where the relatives of his live. The ground taken is that it is not unlikely that such associations might lead to the relatives of the wife of a diplomat abroad becoming possessed of dangerous se

OUR GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN INSULTED

For Which No Satisfaction Has Been Demanded-The American Consul Loses
His Position by Intrigue.

IN NICARAGUA.

A prominent business man, with large commercial interests in Nicaragua, but whose name is, for the present withheld, gives an enteresting account of the situaion at Bluefields, from which point he has just arrived. The story of the dissatisfaction, existing in this republic of Central America, has been given to the public, from time to time, in a desultory way.

It seems from all accounts that the Amercan government has been insulted by the Nicaragua commission; and that Consu Braida, by intrigue, has lost his position. The United Staets has appointed a new consul, but has failed as yet to demand a retraction of the insult offered to the na-

England, on the contrary, which has been treated in a similar way, has made a sharp demand for an explanation, and English vessels are now stationed at Bluefields, teeping an eye on Nicaragua. Before the ist of April, Senor Madriz, the secretary of foreign affairs, arrived in Bluefields to investigate the matter and to consult with Mr. Braida, the American consul. On the 1st of April, not Lowing of the dismassal of Mr. Braida from the interior, he sent Minister Baker a dispatch, thanking him for the kind assistance rendered his govern ment, that of Nicaragua, by Mr. Braida Thus while the commissioner on the one hand, was instrumental in having his credentials withdrawn, he was warmly commended by the secretary of foreign affairs on the other hand.

In a Bad Situation. Minister Baker has relieved Mr. Braida of his office, and appointed another man to fill it. This has caused no small amount of feeling against the administration, as When the American vessels, the San Francisco, reaches Bluefields, it is expected that lefinite instructions will be received from his country.

The English warship is now at Bluefields, seeping watch over the town. Senor Madriz and the commissioner promised the lieutenant of the San Francisco who was detailed ashore when the shi sailed, that no more soldiers would b landed in the town. Notwithstanding this promise, it is well known that a number of soldiers have been smuggled ashore in small boats during the night. The town is very greatly disturbed over the situation It appears, from all accounts, that the United States, through our secretary, Mr. Gresham, has acted hastily in relieving Mr. Braida of his consuiship, and tardy in resenting the insult which was offered by the Nicaragua commissioner to this nation. Mr. Braida thereupon withdrew, giving the commissioner to understand that the whole American nation had been insulted and that he would demand an apology. On the following day he received a letter of apology from the commissioner. To this he replied that he accepted the apology personally, but could not accept it for the American nation. The apology is now in Washington city, having been carried to the seat of government by Captain Seat. A Plot Against the Consul.

"When this apology was made the com missioner reasoned that Mr. Braida would make use of it to his detriment and he make use of it to his detriment and he immediately commenced to intrigue to get Mr. Braida's credentials withdrawn. The redentials of Consul Braida were withrawn by the local government on the first of April at Marragua."

Our Government Insulted. This is the situation at Nicarague at the resent time, as presented by The Consti-ution's informant Mr. Braida, the American consul, called at the residence of the Nicaragua commissioner for the purpose of explaining the terms on which the Americans would take a part in the provisional government, which terms he assured the commissioner were to be final. The conversation was held in Spanish, although the commis-sioner was a fluent master of English. He refused to speak in the latter tongue and the American consul was forced to acqui-esce. Several words were passed between the officers, after which, the commissioner growing impatient, explained:

"I had rather have the Jamaicans to deal with than the d-d Americans.' LONGSHOREMEN MAKE TROUBLE.

They Circulate Reports Which Are Quickly Disproved by the Records. Savannah, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—The dis-gruntled longshoremen have endeavored to stir up a sensation here by the circulation of the report that the Spanish steamship Rita, which left this port yesterday for Barcelona, sailed with nearly 800 bales short of her capacity on account of the manner in which it was packed by the non-union habor. They say that Captain Clinnica, of the Rita, went before a notary public before sailing and made an affidavit to the effect that his short cargo was due solely to the class of labor which is employed at the port. He is quoted in an afternoon paper as saying he was disgusted with his cargo, which was loaded by Messrs. Strachan & Co. Messrs. Strachan & Co. deny the report and say that Captain Cinnica expressed himself as fully satisfied with his cargo. They show by figures that with his cargo. They show of lighter that out of five cargoes which he has carried within the last year, he has had but one which was larger than this. This dispute is another step in widening the breach between the longshoremen and the stevedores. There seems to be little doubt that there will be a large strike on hand among the former when the cotton season opens up in the fall. The affidavit has not materialized-

DENIED THE ORDER.

An Important Decision Rendered by Judge Newman Yesterday. An opinion was rendered yesterday by Judge Newman in the case of W. C. Bunn against the Central Trust Company, and his honor refuses to grant the request made

When the Chattanoogo, Rome and Colu bus railroad went into the hands of a re-ceiver W. C. Bunn, of Cedartown, was ap-pointed by the state court to take charge. At the same time R. C. Jones was put in by the federal court. It was because of this that Bunn filed an intervention to get possession of the road. The opinion of Judge Newman given yesterday sustains the first decision of the federal court. Concluding his opinion Judge Newman says: "It is the desire of this court too show the utmost consideration for the courts of the state, but it is not per-ceived how in any view of the matter, a better right is shown in the receiver of the state court to have possession of the property in controversy than the officer of this court, who is now in active possession."

Social at the Y. M. C. A. There will be an interesting gathering at the Young Men's Christian Association tonight of members and friends of the association. The Young Men's Christian Associa-tion orchestra will be present and render music during the evening. Other features will be violin solos by Mr. H. Crenshaw accompanied by Mr. A. A. Weisenfeldt, and recitations by Mr. Alex Bealer. Short talks will be made and the occasion promises to be one of unusual interest. Light refresh-ments will be served. Cards have been issued to members and friends.

DID NOT PAY IT BACK

Henry Martin Held at Police Headquarters for Cheating and Swindling.

BORROWED THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS The Loan Was for Three Days, but Was

Not Paid for Five Months-Martin Prominent in Church Affairs. "Henry F. Martin, cheating and swind This is all the police docket has to say about a sensational story of intricate parts story of embezzlement and possibly of larceny after trust. For the past three years or longer, Martin has been connected with the Plymouth Rock Pants Company, doing business on Whitehall street. For an equal number of years, he has taken up his abode at the house of Mrs. Albert, sister of Lawyer W. J. Albert, at 5 West Mitchell street. De-cember 13th last, becoming embarrassed in financial way, Martin felt the necessity of borrowing from Mrs. Albert, his landlady $300. Mrs. Albert had known the Plymouth Rock pants man for two years or more, and felt inclined to oblige him with the Accordingly, the matter was ar ranged, Mrs. Abert giving Martin an order on Mr. Beattle bookkeeper for Treadwell, on Mr. Beattle, Abbott & Co.

Abbott & Co.

The loan was for three days, but the three days came and went, and the amount was not returned.

The days passed and grew into months

Mrs. Albert all the while importuning Mar-tin for a return of the money. Martin informed her on two or three dif-ferent occasions that he would go to his father's home in Macon and secure the amount due her and finally settle the matter. Later he did this, but, as Martin says, he was unable to obtain the $300 from his father, as his father had been put to some expense in the purchase of real estate.

The questior was then asked, why Mr. Martin did not raise the amount from the people for whem he worked. Developments answered the question, showing that the money Martin had borrowed from Mrs. Albert was applied to the payment of a shortage in his accounts. Martin explains, however, that the shortage was not of his own making, but was due to the carelessness of his tousin, Andrew West, book keeper for the pants company.

Time still passed, Mrs. Albert repeating her importunities and Martin still putting her off on one pretext or another. Yesterday afternoon, the rumor went abroad that Martin was expecting to leave the city, ostensibly for Baltimore, on a business trip to the home company. Mrs. Albert suspecied that he might not go to Baltimore and immediately sought out her brother and placed the whole matter before him. She sail to Mr. W. J. Albert that the money she had lent Mr. Martin was a part of all she had in the world and that it was a portion of the amount of insurance that she had obtained at the death of her husband. She explained that she was afraid that she would never be repaid, and so she wanted him to look after her inter-

Mr. Albert sent out his partner. Hughes to look up Nartin. Mr. Hughes associated one of the detectives with him in his search and was at last rewarded about nightfall by finding Martin roosting on the back stairs of the Lowe building, just over the clothing establishment of Eads-Neel. When Martin was taken to police headquarters in the patrol, he was in a dazed condition caused, as he explained between his moans, by a fall down the stairway of he Lowe building. Messrs. Albert & Hughes were much incensed, and a talk with the prisoner had but little effect. They swore out a warrant for cheating and swindling before Judge Rodgers, whom they found by accident at headquarters, and had Martin incarcerated. Bond was fixed in the sum of $500, but at a late hour last night, Martin had not obtained a bondsman. A preliminary hearing before Judge R. L. Rodgers is set for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Martin explains that he has made every effort to get hold of a sum of money sufficient to repay Mrs. Albert the amount due her, but that he has met with nothing but failure. His explanations of the evidence in the sum of the continuous sufficient of the sum failure. His explanations of the entire matter are such as to lead one to believe that he has been guilty of no intention to cheat but that he has somewhat dilatory is readily true. Martin is usher in the First Baptist church of Atlanta, and a regular attendant upon the services at Dr. Hawthorne's church.

AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

A Party of Visiting Journalists Inspect Atlanta's Station House. dozen or more of the visiting journalists paid police headquarters a visit last night and were shown over the different departments of the building. The cells as well as the offices of the different men in charge at the station house, and the detectives' rooms, were all looked into, a peep being taken at the recorder's courtroom. The latter, however, was not seen under its most favorable conditions; that is to say, when it is filled with the Decatur street element during the progress of a case.

The company of visitors were chaperoned by Judge and Mrs. Robert L. Rodgers, and contained a number of local as well as for-eign newspaper men and women. All were profuse in their praises of the condition in which the station house was found.

Is Seventy-One Years Old. The following interesting letter is from Rev. Frank Joseph, the colored missionary: "One of the leading ministers of Atlanta at the preachers' meeting on Monday asked me to publish my report of the meetings Sunday to encourage others, as it was a day long to be remembered. I had a meeting at the city stockade at half-past 7 o'clock, one at the Fulton county jail at 10 o'clock, another at 12 o'clock at the station house, and then at 2 o'clock another at the Peachtree camps, making four places I vis-

I told them that religion was no account without morals. I carried them out a lot of hymn books and Testaments. A lady who has just returned from China gave me some money to get hymn books and Testaments for them, and many others gave me money. One of the distinguished gentlemen I met on the street gave me money to pay my car fare, but I bought some Testaments with it. I am sorry to see that the chaingang is increas-ng so. It is not the old ex-slave getting nto the chaingang, but the rising generations in their teens and twenties. The Tariff and the Money Question. Mr. Benjamin Harrison, ex-president is credited with the remark that "the free use of silver upon an international agreement that would assure its coned equality with gold, would do more than anything that I know of, save the establishment of the protective principle, to bring again prosperity unto our commerce.'

Does Mr. Harrison forget that the Mc-Kinley law, in which the protective principle seems to be thoroughly established, is now in force? Is he aware that the McKinley high protective tariff was in operation last spring when our prosperity showed its most marked symptom of decay? Does he know, or has he forgotten that, though republican high proection has been established in the law for a long time, prices have been falling for twenty years or more?

We should be glad for Mr. Harrison or some other advocate of McKinlevism to come right out in print and tell us boldly and squarely how a high protective riff can restore prosperity to a people whose money supply has been contracted more than one-half. They may pile protective duties sky high, but how will that add to the ability of the people to pay the price demanded? They may shut out of our markets every article of foreign manufacture, but how will that create a demand for goods of American manufacturers?

Mr. Harrison may reply that the peo ple will be compelled to have them and that this absolute necessity will start up the mills and factories and give increased employment to labor. But the people, in order to buy these products, must have money.

We should think that our experience during the past two years ought to satlsfy the most radical protectionist of the futility of high duties when more than half of the money basis of the country has been destroyed. We still have the McKinley bill with us, but prices were never lower, and the condition of the average working man wa ore miserable. We shall have to go to England to find a parallel to the uneasiness and restlessness of labor. We shall have to go to, England to find a parallel to the depression and misery that have fallen on this country. And we can only find it in England because that country has the single gold standard-the money that is daily robbing debtors and producers and increasing the paralysis of business.

It would be an interesting exhibition -a most valuable object lesson in practical economics-to see the unimpeded operations of a high tariff under our present financial system. The operations of the McKinley law are unimpeded now, and thoughtful men clearly perceive the esult; but the value of the object lesson Is lost on the multitude. The republican organs are clamorously declaring that the cause of the hard times and of the business depression is the fear of radical changes in the tariff. A great many ple are deceived by this clamor, but their eyes would be opened if the republicans were in power now and had re-established the British gold standard as Mr. Cleveland has succeeded in doing. But through all this dust and smoke of controversy the people will see clearly after awhile, and then they will perceive that-tariff or no tariff-there can be no prosperity in a country where the money basis is abnormally contracted, where the money supply is not sufficient to meet the demands of busi-

The Collapse of Coxeyism.

The easy suppression of the Coxey onstration at Washington might have been expected. The workingmen of that city showed little sympathy with the movement, and the parade of the ionweal was a dismal failure. The American masses have their grievances, and they are clamoring for relief. But they are too sensible to expect to complish anything by tramping tigh the country and attempting to overawe congress. The average citizen knows that the proper use of the ballot will right every wrong and correct every ovil of a political character. If the ids of reform will get ready for a march to the polls, instead of marching on Washington, they will inaugurate a ovement that will result in the reption of every pledge of the demoratic platform, and when this comes pass the country will enter one of the st prosperous eras in its history. Honest ballots, directed by intelligence ad patriotism, will redeem the republic, nothing good can be expected from roving bands of crusaders made up all sorts and conditions of men who e now begging their way across the ent. If Coxey's followers do not congress they should go to the polls at the next election and vote for a set of men who can be depended upon to give the country financial relief and a revenue tariff. This is the practical way of push ing genuine reform. Nothing can be done by mobs at the capital and elsewhere, and if we propose to maintain law and order the Coxeyites will have to be suppressed whenever they menace public peace and order.

The ballot is the thing. It is the free man's most potential weapon, and it is less expensive and troublesome than the Coxey business. The citizens who desire to control congress should make themselves heard and felt at the polls next fall.

Box and Cox.

Senator Hoar has written a very engaging letter to some one belonging to the Coxey delegation now in Washington. The Massachusetts senator takes very high ground. He informs his correspondent that the persons who belong to Mr. Coxey's company, "so far as they are decent and well intentioned Americans, are entitled to all the privileges of American citizenship." So far so good, but the senator goes farther. He says he cannot recognize their right to speak for the American people. "Five or ten thousand people," he declares, "have no right to dictate to the other 65,000,000, or to dictate to the government which the other 65,000,000 have established."

It is the opinion of The Constitution that Senator Hoar is soaring higher than he intended to; that he is going farther than his theory and practice warrant. We have no evidence whatever that the rag-tag and bobtail of which Coxey's company is made up are proceeding to Washington to dictate to the rest of the people or to the country. It is true that they have not gone to Washington in palace cars, with ice-cold champagne in the buffets. This may be a breach of eastern etiquette, but it is no crime. The rag-tag and bobtail-if we may be permitted to borrow the terminology of eastern rhetoricians-were not able to employ palace cars. They were compelled to go by way of the dirt road, or y green line sleepers. This is bad, but it is not criminal. This, in fact, may be said of the whole business, it is foolish, ridiculous and absurd; but at its very worst it is nothing more than harmless burlesque on the efforts that astern trusts, and combinations of millionaire manufacturers are constantly making to dictate to the rest of the people, or to dictate to the government established by the rest of the people.

Surely Senator Hoar understands the situation in Washington. It is true that his countenance wears the innocent and trusting look that we see in the faces of children, but we are forced to believe that it conceals a very shrewd under standing. Surely the senator knows what took place when the Sherman-Voorhees repeal bill was pending in the senate. The corridors of the capitol and the committee rooms swarmed with the agents of British and eastern bankers and money lenders. A convention of bank presi dents was convened in Washington and under cover of this a tremendous effort was brought to bear on congress.

Surely Senator Hoar knows what hap pens in Washington whenever a tariff bill is under discussion. The city is packed with the agents of eastern interests. A powerful lobby is always at hand. The millionaire manufacturers send delegations of their employes to Washington and in this way strive to dictate to the rest of the people, or to dictate to the government established by the rest of the people.

We should be glad for Se to snatch a moment from his arduous duties and tell us the difference between the Coxey army that invades Washington by the dirt road, with peaceful intentions, and powerless even if its in tentions were not peaceful, and the eastern army of trust presidents, bank presidents and millionaire manufacturers who ride into Washington in palace cars with their paid lobbyists and their paid agents. Why is one invasion a burlesque on the other? The only difference be tween the two raids is the difference that money makes. The eastern raiders are more powerful and more respectable because they have money. They are also more dangerous to the people for the same reason. They are listened to with respect because they have money. They are able to secure legislation favorable to their personal interests and unfavorable to the interests of the people because they have money-because they are able to pay for it either in hard cash or in political "pulls." We advise Mr. Hoar and the eastern ontingent representing the greed and selfishness of the money power not to suggest odious comparisons between the Coxeyites and the millionaire bosses who control legislation with their money.

How Rich Men Are Annoyed.

The other day a shabby looking man called at the residence of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, in New York, and demanded forty million dollars. As he was very persistent, and would not listen to reason, he was turned over to the police with instructions to treat him kindly.

Our millionaires should not be severely criticised if they adopt unusual precautions to prevent strangers from intruding upon their privacy. ,The country is full of cranks, and when a rich man meets a strange visitor he feels that he may stand in the presence of an assassin like Prendergast, or an anarchist with a dynamite bomb. Even when the crank is harmless it is annoying to have him drop in at odd hours with an urgent request for forty million dollars to be paid down in hard cash. Very few Americans carry that amount of money in their pockets, and fewer still can spare it upon a moment's notice. Mr. Rockefeller and hundreds of other millionaires are good citizens. They give liberally to objects of public and private charity and are good friends to the poor. They should be protected from the unreasonable and bulldozing de mands of their half-crazy persecutors, and if they seek the aid of private detectives and body guards, they cannot be blamed. There are desperate peo in this country who seem to think that a rich man is fair game to be hunted down, threatened and dynamited if he refuses to turn over his millions to the the policy of the administration and first tramp who comes along and asks for them. Against this class our millionaires have the right to demand and receive adequate protection.

Prophets of Evil.

Governor Lewelling, of Kansas, is tickling the ears of his fellow populists with all sorts of horrible predictions.

The governor declares that the Coxey movement is the forerunner of a revolution which is to start immediately after the fall elections. In the coming upheaval the Shylock millionaires and their property will be destroyed and assassin ation and incendiarism will be the order of the day.

A man with brains and influence enough to reach the governor's chair in Kansas ought to be ashamed of such wild talk. The social revolution he pre dicts can never occur in a nation of home owners. We may have our seasons of discontent and depression, but nine out of ten of our citizens are on the side of law and order. They are not afraid of starvation. If they cannot get work at high wages they will accept what is offered and wait for better times. They have no enmity towards the rich, and it is an insult to them to predict that they will become assassins and incendiaries.

The prophets of evil give the public that tired feeling so common in the spring. If they would work their jaws less and their hands more the country would soon get rid of hard times.

Sectionalism a Thing of the Past.

At the banquet the other night in honor of the International League of Press Clubs, the speeches of northern, western and souththe ern delegates were all characterized by a vein of patriotic Americanism running through them. There was not a discordant note-not the slightest trace of sectionalism.

The speech of Colonel John A. Cockerill breathed this liberal spirit in every sen tence, and his utterances were regarded as especially significant. The other delegates were on the same line, without regard to sectional and party differences This is all the more gratifying when the fact is considered that the speakers were representative journalists, bril liant and brainy men who are largely instrumental in shaping public opinion.

Of course, in this vast country people will always be divided upon many local and national issues, but it is evident that our social and business relations have greatly modified the prejudices of a generation ago. The people of the different sections are becoming acquainted with each other. They mix and mingle more than they did in former years, and are growing more tolerant. Whenever they come together like the delegates at the press banquet they forget all about geographical lines and remember that they are Americans-one people, with one flag, one country and one destiny.

This growing solidarity of the American people is an inspiration and a sign of promise. Hereafter no leader and no party can expect to win on a sectional issue or any issue that revives the oldtime war passions. When the test comes our people are thoroughly American, and loyalty to the union is as deeply rooted in Texas as it is in Maine.

It is to be hoped that we shall have more reunions like this convention of the press clubs. It is a good thing for northerners to come south and for southerners to go north. Travel and observation cause the people of distant states to know each other better, and with this knowledge comes the growth of a fraternal sentiment which will wipe out the last vestige of sectionalism. The republicans say they are going wonders when they get back into power The spectacle of a high tariff with the single gold standard—all elements of confusion out of the way-would be an instructive one for the people. We believe that the northern editors would remain with us many months if they could get barbecue every day.

About what year are we likely to have international bimetallism? In other words how long are the business men, the producers and the working men to submit to the present condition of affairs?

In any attempt to control legislation Boxey, of the east, has a tremendous ad vantage over Coxey, of the west.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The Arena says of Colonel B. F. Sawyer's new novel, "David and Abigail:" "It is a story of modern days. The characters are simply human, made of very common clay and their prototypes can be found wherever there are men and women. It is an artless story, written for the entertainment of the reading public, yet there is philosophy in it, but not of the heavy kind that sinks many a literary back. It is a wholesome story; it will be read around the evening lamps.

Men will smile, women may cry; all will be the better for the reading. The story is handsomely illustrated with a charming portrait of the heroine."

The New York Recorder tells a story of sale of a wife, which took place not far from Carthage, in that state, a few days since. Mrs. Joseph Kipp is a very comely young woman and has been for a long time the admiration of all the neighboring woodmen. Kipp watched the attentions paid his wife with a careful eye particular. paid his wife with a careful eye, particular ly when one of his fellow workmen, paid his wire with a careful eye, particular-ly when one of his fellow workmen, a Frenchman named John Burall, was around. The Frenchman's love grew beyond his con-trol, and at last he became bold enough to tell Joe of it, and to ask him to put a price on his wife. Joe declined to sell, but the Frenchman continued his importunities, and began to plead his cause. Kipp finally gave way, and, while intimating that his wife was the dearest creature on earth, offered to part with her and all their household furniture for $5. Burall quickly pushed the money into Kipp's face, and a few minutes later Albert Droppo, justice of the peace, drew up a bill of sale, and Mrs. Kipp and Mr. Burall were happy. Kipp left soon afterward for Syracuse.

A Washington special to The New York Sun says: "It is common report that an armed watchman has been put on duty in the corridor just outside the president's bedroom door. This is the first time such precaution has been taken since President Lincoln was in the white house, it is said. The night guard began his duty last Saturday night. Two other guards are on duty at night in the white house. One is stationed at the door of the main entrance: the at hight in the white house. One is stationed at the door of the main entrance; the second is at the foot of the staircase leading to the second floor, where the sleeping rooms are. The white house detail from the police force consists of thirteen men in the course of the twenty-four hours. An additional detail will be made next Monday, when the industrials are expected to arrive in greater force. At that time the second in greater force. At that time the gates in the great fron fence which incloses the Pennsylvania avenue front of the white house grounds will be closed, it is expected, and only those who can show legitimat business will be allowed to enter."

The Siege of Metz. From The Gentleman's Magazine, The bulk of the horses lived in so sorry a fashion that it was a mere farce to divide their poor carcasses into the three cate-

"filet." They fell dead of debility and lean-ness on their way to the slaughter houses. It is easy to imagine that the "bouillon" and cutlets from such steeds were not strong in ncurishing qualities. And yet these starved anatomies were the only source of meat in the city during September and October. About fifty of them were daily consumed The price of meat was never very high. In mid-September the common parts were sold at about 3d. a pound, the second best parts at 5d., and the choicest parts (excluding the "filet," which was the recognized luxury of the city) might be had for 7½d. a pound. Nor were the prices any higher the day be fore the capitulation. But by then ther was about as much nutriment in a carpet bag as in the black unsightly lumps which disfigured the butchers' shops.

After the siege a considerable number of horses were offered for sale at from 2f. to 10f. apiece. For their reputation's sake they had better have died nad been eater they had better have died nad been caten a fortnight previously.

Milk, lard, salt, and vegetables were the articles of which Metz most felt the lack. Beef at 6s. 8d. a pound, and eggs at a franc apiece were manifestly indulgences for the rich alone. But the sadden deprivation of milk was a more serious affair. The death rate of children during the siege was double the normal rate. The mothers could neither suckle nor buy milk for their newborn babes. These, with few exceptions, speedily found their way to the cemetery past the

The chemists also put their heads together and manufactured a substitute for natural salt. Until the capitulation, howover, this deficiency was much felt, and declared itself in the illhealth of the people. The salt water contained only three parts of salt in a thousand.

Little by little, too, the grocery and other stores lost their stock. The army was the greatest consumer here. Early in the slege the officers made large purchases, as if they foresaw a time of hardship. Sugar became almost as rare as sait, and nothing after tobacce was so acceptable a present in the tobacco was so acceptable a present in the hospitals as a little of it screwed up in a picce of paper.

The Roman Index.

From The Cornhill Magazine The last Roman Index is dated 1888, and additions have been made since that date, the last author to be gibbeted up to the present time being Professor & George Mivart, in consequence of his articles on "The Happiness in Hell" a few months ago in The Nineteenth Century Magazine. The Nineteenth Century Magazine. He has since retracted those writings, and finds consolation in the fact that one of the half dozen or more reasons for which books may be put on the roll of the condemned is that of inopportuneness. Perhaps, therefore, his name will not appear on future lists.

But he would have found himself in good company. Owing to the indiscriminate way in which the names of authors and works are mixed up, in the former case being often arranged under the Christian names—the largest number of entries occur under the letter J, because John is a common name it is somewhat difficult to discover who are among the victims of papal censure. How-ever, a glance will disclose many well-known names. James I and Henry VIII appear as prohibited authors, an exception being made in favor of a tract issue by the latter king against Luther. Nearly all the English poets figure on the list, headed by Milton, Spenser and Chaucer; Dryden forming a notable exception. Dante is there for his treatise on monarchy, and Petrarel also. Addison, Swift and Oliver Gold smith are side by side with Bacon, Galileo Robertson and Gibbon. Philosophe thick, from Locke downward, inc

Rousseau, Hume, Kant and John Stuart Mill. Voltaire is proscribed, and Victor Hugo appears thus: "Hugo, Victor, N. D. de Paris, an. 1834, Dec."

However, it were weary work to count up further entries; suffice it to know that prohibition has never been able to check the vital force of genfus; indeed, it may be said to have the opposite effect; as Milton points out in his "Areopagitica," "the pun-ishing of wits enhances their authority, and a forbidden writing is thought to be a certain spark of truth that flies up in the faces

HIS FIRST NIGHT IN A HOTEL. This Customer Kept the Clerks and the Bellboy Busy. From The Indianapolis Sentinel. A night clerk at one of the principal hotels of the city had a customer the other

He ambled into the hotel with the uncer tain gait and hesitating manner of a man who is conscious of the fact that he has turned up the wrong road, carrying in his hand a new valise that looked as though driving to the station. He saw the clerk at about the same mo

"Howdy?" asked the new arrival. Just then his eye located the ceiling and he held it transfixed as though fearful of losing it while the top of his head from the chin up was stretched back until it was on a with his spinal column. "How's folks? "Why, pretty well, thank you," replied the clerk. "Your folks well?

The upturned eyes slowly followed the lines of the decorated ceiling, the body turning in unison until the stranger's back was revealed. What there was visible seemed to have been used some.
"Right peart," was the slow and almost strangled answer, "cept Mandy; she's ailin' ag'in. Ike hain't had no fit since corn cuttin'." The ceiling having been duly digested, the

From The Atchison Champion. The best joke of the year in railroad circles is going the rounds, and is, as usual, at the expense of the traveling passenger agents. The traveling passenger agents employed by the western railroads are "hustlers" that it would be hard to duplicate. When any business gets away from cate. When any business gets away from them it is not because they have overlooked it. They can scent a "good thing" as far as a tramp can a free lunch. One of the requisites of success is an ability to think and act at the same time The three agents who figured in this contest were C. H. Duxbury, of the Baltimore and Ohio; C. W. Green, of the Big Four, and E. G. Davidson, of the Erie. The latter part of last week they were all in Kansas City. Trade was dull. It was so dull that the three men began smoking together and had become almost sociable when Da-vidson received a dispatch from the Rock Island agent at Lincoln, Neb., reading: "Large company here wants transporta-ton east. Big thing. Nobody has seen

The recipient of that telegram made a quiet sneak over the Missouri Pacific to start to Lincoln. He had not reached the depot in Kansas

A dispatch about this time from the northwestern man at Lincoln was handed to Green reading: "Big company here wants terms east. The agents at Omaha wired them en route to the same effect, but before they neared Lincoln the trio was telegraphed from a half dozen sources that their company was at Omaha. Then they informed them all at about the same time that the party had gone to Council Bluffs, and they gave the street address in that city where they could be found. The agents took a carriage each, gave the address to the driver with a persuasive coin for fast driving and thought joyfuily over the outlook that the lively chase would soon be ended, and each particular one believed he would be a winner.

WILLIE WILDE'S WIFE.

She Is the Cause of a Great Deal of Gossip Just Now.

Willie Wilde's second marriage it a lot of talk both in England and America. Willie scoffs at the suggestion that the American courts, which gave Mrs. Leslie a divorce, can interfere with his second mardivorce, can interfere with his second mar-riage. It happened on January 11th, and was kept secret. Since then the bride, Sophie Lees, has been living at home with her mother and Wilde with his. "I am glad that my second wife is not an American," he says. "The report that I got any money from Mrs. Leslie is false. She promised before my mother. Lady

She promised before my mother, Wilde, to make a settlement of $5,000 on m America she refused to But when I got to America she refused to do it, claiming that it was not the custom of her country to make ante-nuptial settle ments. I argued with both Mrs. Leslie and her lawyers that the earl of Craven had reeived a marriage settlement before he married Miss Bradley-Martin-in that Mr. Bradley-Martin had paid off the earl's debts to the amount of $1,250,000. It was because the earl's estates, which should yield an income of $750,000, were so heavily mortgaged that the income didn't amount to $25,000, not enough for them to live on—so Mr. Bradley-Martin cleared off the off the mortgages, just as he should do." It was this very complacent view of his nartial perquisites, together with his chronmartial perquisites, together with his chron-to indisposition to work, that led to the separation between Willie and Mrs. Frank eslie Mrs Leslie, being a thorough business woman, as well as a thorough American, declined to look at the matter from hi

Public Opinion and the House of Lords. From The North American Review.

As regards the house of lords, opinion has ripened very much of late. A quarter of a century ago I made at Birmingham town hall, with Mr. Chamberlain in the chair, a speech in which I suggested the possibility that a peer might stand for the house of commons and so break down the house of lords, by setting a fashion which would be followed and would deprive it of the services of those able men who constitute its strength. The eldest sons of two tory peers, and the eldest son of a great liberal union ist peer, who is also the son-in-law of Lord Salisbury, have in the present session in-troduced bills for removing the disabilities of peers and allowing them to be elected to the house of commons, such as will have my hearty support. It is understood that some of the tory peers' eldest sons in the house of commons have decided that when, in the course of nature they are to be "called up" they will refuse to go, and will insist on fighting for the privilege of remaining in the commons. At the time when I made the speech to which I just alluded, I thought, and I thought till recently, that many of us among the extreme radicals who prefer the present weak house of lords to any new "second chamber" would have of peers and allowing them to be elected to to any new "second chamber" would have to spend our lives in fighting the liberal party, resisting "abolition of the hereditary principle" or "reform of the house of lords." All idea of "mending" of the house of 'ords has died out suddenly in the last few months, and the whole liberal party is now in favor of one of two plans—enther "end-ing" the bouse of lords, or else very charply

French Comic Songs.

One of the French papers has been making inquiries on the subject of the profits derived from the sale of popular comic songs. It hardly pays, it seems, to publish songs that only have a moderate success at the music halls, as up to 1,000 copies or more the sale barely pays for the cost of printing and paper. After that figure is reached, however, the profits are large. There are two sorts of copies—those which have only the words and the notes of the air, and those which give besides the planoforte accompaniment. Comparatively few of the latter are sold. "En revenant de la Bevue." commonly called the Boulanger

March, brought its happy composer alone 50,000f from the sale of copies. The author of the verses is believed to have received ch more than this. Nevertheless, the business of song writing is not a very lu-crative one, for successes such as that are very rare. Even the best known men, such as M. Delormel, M. Petit and M. Carnier, believed to earn less than £300 a year of Life in the West. From Harper's Weekly.

Jackson Peters leaned back in his chair and slowly blew a cloud of smoke toward the ceiling. "Jones," he said, "I want to ask your opinion in regard to the proba-bility of a story which was told me the "Well, Jackson?" was the guarded reply of the cautious Jones.

"It struck me," continued Peters, "that a man who had told as many—that is to av. a man who has told as much of what I may call awe-inspiring truth as you have, ought to be a good judge of the probability of a story. It was a cyclone story which I was going to ask you about.

"Most cyclone stories are palpable lies. "No doubt. The point is this: He said he had seen straws driven through inch boards by the force of the wind."

"It never happened, Jackson. That is a stock lie told of every cyclone that blows. Your friend imposed upon your youth, my boy. He would never have dared to have tell such a manifest and self-heralding lie to Robinson or Smith. I must admit, though, that the force of the wind in a When 1 lived in Kansas, in the 70's, I had a quantity of poultry, but it all was blown away in the first cyclone of the season except a black Spanish rooster. He clung to a grass root with his bill, and allowed his tail to crack and whip in the wind like pennant. He rode out the gale, nost of his feathers were blown off. Eutse uently I found some of them imbedded ver half an inch in my grindstone.'

friend was trying to impose upon my adoole experience with cyclones that summer in Kansas. But I learned to handle myself, so that I did not mind them much. I soon saw the fallacy of depending on cyclone cellars and that sort of thing. The fundamental difficulty with all such things is that you try to hold yourself firmly in one place. It is as if a ship in a gale should tie up to a post (supposing mid-ocean post for the time being) instead of driving before the tempest. The first cyclone that summer I, of course, went down cellar, like other folks. My house was soon blown away. The next thing I knew the cellar went too, rolling over and over, like a slik hat. I was soon spilled out. With infinite labor I crawled back in the teeth of the wind, intending to take refuge in the hole the cellar came out of. To my consternation of found that had blown away also. I then followed the example of the rooster, clung to a root, and allowed my legs to flutter and snap in the gale like a weather signal flag.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF HEALTH. The United States Is Sadly in Need of

Such a Department. Surgeon General Sternberg says: "We plume ourselves upon the extent of our ter-ritory, the intelligence and enterprise of our people, and our rapid progress in all of the arts which add to the comfort and or the arts which add to the comfort and enlightenment of man; but in one particular, at least, we are lamentably behind the leading countries of Europe. We have today no central health bureau, and, so far as national legislation is concerned, the sanitary interests of the people have received but little attention with a view to the exclusion of exotic pestilential diseases. But even if it should be lential diseases. But even if it should be conceded that the national quarantine service, as at present administered, is sufficient for this purpose—and this is not conceded by many leading sanitarians in the country—the necessity for a central health bureau would be none the less imperative. From the point of view of senatorial writers for the daily press, and, unfortunately, of many of those upon whom national legislation depends, the exclusion of cholera, yellow fever and other exotic maladies is the low fever and other exotic maladies is the prime object of national sanitary legislation. and past experience shows that under the stimulus of a recent or threatened epidemic that the attention of our lawmakers can be fixed upon these impinterests long enough to secure any "And yet it is well known to health

From Pearson's Weekly.

There are two instances on record of a battle being won by a war song. In the fifth century Germanus, bishop of Auxerre, and Lupus, bishop of Troyes, were sent into Britain to refute the doctrine of Pelagius. During their stay in this island the Picts and Scots, hearing that the Roman legion had been withdrawn, commenced hostilities, and drove the Britons from the northern to the more southern parts of the island. Germanus, at the request of the hard-pressed islanders, led them against the Picts and Scots, who had advanced as far as Mold, in Flintshire. The bishop, having been a retary commander in his youth, placed men in an advantageous position and then started one of the songs of the church. This song began at the commencement of the battle, and so vociferously did the Brit-ish sing the refrain "Hallelujah" that the hills, echoing with the sound, terrified their enemies and caused them to fiee in all di-rections. This was called the "Hallelujah" rections. This was called the Hallelugan victory. The date is fixed by all historians at A. D. 429.

The second instance occurred on the 6th of November, 1792, when the French under Dumouriez encountered the Austrians at Jemmapes, in Belgium. The day was going deed earliest the French, when Dumouriez dead against the French, when Dun ran out to the front and raised the Marseil-laise. Forty thousand voices instantly took up the chorus, and, inspired by the magic of the battle song, the French rallied and fell so furiously upon the Austrians that the tide of battle was completely turned and

The Trip to Lithonia.

The run to Lithonia, to which place the party was first carried, was rapidly covered after the fashion of peolpe at a picnic.

The special train ran through without a stop, and on reaching Lithonia the train was switched on the spur track owned by Venthal Bestham which was now to the left able Brothers, which runs off to the left to the quarry a mile away. On the way down refreshments were served and the guests were entertained in a way that was delightfully novel to the visitors from the north. A quartet of typi-cal negro singers and dancers went through the cars singing, dancing and furnishing instrumental music on the banjo and maninstrumental music on the banjo and mandolin. They sang negro melodies, new to the visitors. The half-dozen kodak artists in the editorial party took numerous snapshots at this group of four Georgia darkles. When the granite quarries, a mile from Lithonia, were reached the delegates got off the cars and marched upon the acclivity where a number of workmen were engaged in hewing out granite stones from a solid hill of stone. This was deeply interesting to most of the visitors and they watched it hill of stone. This was deeply interesting to most of the visitors and they watched in for some time. Again the kodakers got in their work. Many of the party climbed high up on the side of the hill, but were ed back by the sound of the loce The train returned to Lithonia and once more gaining the main track, started for Stone Mountain. The latter place was reached at 1 o'clock. Here the entire party disembarked and were transferred to a train that gave the visitors a new experience in the way of a ride.

The Scene of Carnage.

The scene of the barbecue was two miles from the depot and was reached by a spur track owned by Venable Brothers. Owing to the steep grades it was impossible to carry the heavy train of ten coaches over it. Only one of the coaches was transferred, and this was used for the ladies. The gentlemen of the party climbed upon open flat cars, and standing, made the ride of the club by the exposition directors. two miles around the mountain. It was a novel method of railroad transportation for nine-tenths of the party and despite the inconvenience they enjoyed it. It was a sight for sore eyes to see such dignitaries as Mr. Halstead, Colonel Cockerill and Mr. Berri standing upon the floor of the granite cars, lost in admiration, for the wild

King Callaway was the commissioned representative of Messrs. William H. and Samuel Venable, the enterprising young Atlantians who gave the visiting party of editors a complimentary barbecue of the old-fashioned variety peculiar to the south. The unique entertainment was spread under the shade of old Stone mountain in a little wing of woods that gave it the necessary rural aspect. The place was an cool shade, wide stretches of picturesque scenery and balmy breezes, and a Georgia barbecue at the hands of Jack Callaway! Nothing more was needed to make the oc-

There was a total attendance of over 600, a merry select party of picnickers who enjoyed every moment of their outing.

The barbecue guests left the city on a special train at 11 o'clock. The train was composed of ten coaches and a baggage car. It was in charge of General Passenger Agent Jackson, of the Georgia railroad; Mr. Joe White, the passenger agent of that road; Superintendent Brand, Messrs. Will, Sam and Walter Venable, assisted by Steve R. Johnston, W. R. Joyner and Dick Clark. Mrs. W. H. Venable was on board the train and acted the part of hostess in a most graceful way, receiving and introduc-ing her guests. She made every person on the train feel thoroughly at home.

Besides the distinguished press party there were a large number of prominent citizens on the train, by invitation of the Venable Brothers. Among those present were Colonel George W. Adair, Gharles E. Where the 'Cue Was Spread The barbecue was spread in a little shady dale near the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Venable. It was a delightful scene that flashed across the gaze of the visitors. Placed about under the shade were a score of tables, covered with white cloths and set with the necessary ware. One or two of these were hidden beneath canopies of

On the crown of the hill, under a large ten, were the tables intended for the dis-tinguished members of the party, and under this tent the ladies were placed. This splen did scene lay just at the base of Stone mountain and towering high above it was the tall granite side of the big mountain. Some of the ladies stopped at Mr. Venable's residence, where private tables were set for them. The 600 and more people on the barbecue grounds had but a few min-utes to wait. Less than a hundred yards from the tables were the smoking trenches, presided over by King Callaway, and he and a score of aides were hustling about getting the things ready. Colonel Cockerill, Mr. Halstead and the other gentlemen from the north made their first excursion into the unknown delights of a Georgia barbecue and enjoyed it to the full extent. Colonel Halstead marched past a rollicking, festive party, the members of which greeted him with loud cheers.

"Halstead! Halstead!" shouted the party. "Halstead! Halstead!" shouted the party. The great editor removed his hat carefully with both hands and with a comical gesture gave it a forward thrust. This done in an extremely solemn and dignified manner intensified the cheers and again and again he was forced to remove his hat in a similar manner.

As he passed on the cheers grew louder and he ran. The shouts followed him, and and he ran. The shouts followed him, and finally stopping, he gathered up a number of stones from a field and began hurling them at his jovial friends. This created a great burst of merriment and the health of the big editor was drank, as he dignifiedly

The Fox Chase.

A diverting feature of the afternoon was a fox chase, which was witnessed by nearly all who were present. A fleet-footed gray fox, which was caught several nights ago loose and a pack of twenty hounds turned loose and a pack of twenty hounds turned loose after him. Fully 400 people gathered around the man who held the fox prisoner and watched the liberation. The hounds were chained up and held while the fox got a good distance ahead. Then they were finally freed; the hounds broke off at ful

Many interesting incidents occurred dur-ing the afternoon. "Colonel" Montgomery, a venerable old negro with a knack for humor, was one of the figures on the ground. He was an object of great interest among the northern contingent. He was intro-duced to Colonels Halstead and Cockerill with due solemnity by Captain Howell. He bowed, and smiling condescendingly, said: "It's a big consolation for big men to meet each other.

The party returned to the city at 5:30 o'clock. The Georgia road made the run in quick time. The management of the Georgia road were voted the thanks of the en-tire delegation. The road tendered the train free of cost, and under the competent management of the officials mentioned above it was put through without a single break.

PHILADELPHIA WON IT. The Next Session of the League Goes to That City. After the pleasant banquet of the night before, the members of the press convention were slow to convene in the hall of session yesterday morning, and it was 9:30 o'clock before President Cockerill called the meeting to order. The special order of business in regard to the plan of insurance, which had been set for 11 o'clock yesterday morning, was called up at the opening of the convention and a report unfavorable to the committee's first report was handed in. On motion it was de ferred until the next annual meeting. A number of letters of regret were then read from the several press clubs that have no representation in the convention on account of their failure to have delegates present. Mr. J. R. Townsend, of New York, made motion that was adopted unanimously It was to the effect that a wreath be placed on the statue of Grady as a mark of re-spect to his memory. Today before leaving the city the press league will carry out this resolution. The members will march in a body to the statue and the wreath will be placed upon it by President John A.

The most important action taken by the convention yesterday was the adoption of the report of the committee on place of The Philadelphia boys have worked hard to secure it, and it was to this city that the report of the committee was favorable. The convention adopted the committee's report amid much enthusias from the Philadelphia delegation. The meeting having no further business for the morning session adjourned and tool

The reception given by the ladies of the history class and Mrs. Buck, one of its most charming members, at her home ves tarday afternoon was a most delightful af-fair, lovely in arrangement, dainty and re-fined in the serving of refreshments, and graceful in every detail

The unique features of the occasion were the favors in the form of tiny blue stock-ings, pinned to blue ribbons. These stockings were in pale blue and dark blue and shaded the pale hue for the history class and deeply dyed for the more pronounced literary women, whom they entertained.

Above the table where these appropriate favors lay was the following clever verse, printed in gold letters on blue satin:

An hail, ye long down-trodden stocking-Theme of jest, of scorn and mocking. se up! ye order fit to rest Upon a charming woman's breast, But no-we're modern, You shall be A favor for a ladies' tea!

The favors and the verse were originated by Mrs. Julius Brown, who deserves any amount of credit for the bright and witty ea.

Miss Jennie Ham-mond's lovely presence added a delight to the iced tea which she gracefully served from a big bowl in one corner of the re-freshment room. Another pretty idea of Mrs. Brown was the Grecian decoration formed of Mareschal Niel roses and smi-lax which decorated the front door.

Mrs. Buck received the guests in the drawing room on the right. She was very handsome in an elegant tollet of lilac bro-caued satin, trimmed with round point. All the ladies of the class assisted their hostes, most ably in hostess most ably in entertaining her guests. The class embraces many of the cleverest women in Atlanta society and it was an honor even to the many brainy women who called to be enter tained by them.

Mrs. Dickson's reception, which followed Mrs. Buck's, was quite a large one and possessed all the easy and hospitable charm peculiar to the affairs given by this noted Atlanta hostess. Her home was imposing in its beauty and elegance on the occasion Flowers were tayishly used in the lovely drawing rooms, and a stately group of palms was arranged before the fireplace in the hallway. The refreshment table in the dining room was all in coleur de rose, La France blossoms and pink shades and tapers being used.

The evening was made delightful in every way. Mr. Sam Burbank and Miss Jennie Smith rendered several charming musical selections, and Mr. Mayer was the accopanist and also gave an instrumental sel tion that was greatly enjoyed. All the ladies of the league called and a great many of the gentlemen lent their presence to the occasion late in the evening. The hostess was assisted in receiving by a majority of the prettiest society girls here. Mrs. Dickson were a handsome toilet of white brocade, trimmed with duchesse lace and

One of the most delightful features of the visit of the league will be the reception to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson to the officers and delegates and the ladies in the party, this evening from 6 o'clock until 8 o'clock, at the Capital City Club. The change in the itinerary of the league which enables the visitors to spend today in the city, leaving tonight instead of last night, as was at first intended, makes it possible to add to the entertainments this reception which Mrs. Thompson had desired from the first to give, but for which it seemed impossible to find a place in the then completed programme. It will be a most enjoyable affair, given in the most beautiful place for entertaining in the city. Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Thompson extended to the league the invitation to the reception.

It is impossible to extend personal invitations to all of the local people whom Mrs Thompson hopes to have with her, so she invites, through The Constitution, the members of, the young ladles' committee of the women's department of the exposition to be present. An invitation is also extended to the gentlemen of the exposition board. According to the present programme the special train for Jacksonville will leave at

The selection of Philadelphia as the place for the next national convention gives universal satisfaction. That the action of the league is appreciated in the city of broth-erly love will be seen from the following teegram from Mayor Stewart, of that city, which was received by Colonel James Ranking Young, chairman of the Philadelphia

The following letter was forwarded by the Western Union management:

"Atlanta, Ga., May 2.—John A. Cockerill, President of the International Press League, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: It gives me pleasure to tender to the members of your association the free use of the Western Union wires for the transmission of social messages during their stay in Atlanta. I regret that my absence from the city has delayed this communication until now. Very truly yours, J. M. STEPHENS. Superintendent.

The most enegetic worker for the success of the league is, perhaps, Mr. T. J. Keenan, Jr., of Pittsburg. Mr. Keenan is a man of boundless energy, one of the kind who, when they put their whole heart in a work, go at it in a way that means nothing short of complete success. His heart is in the way complete success. His heart is in the up-building of the International League, and he is every day working for its growth. Mr. Keenan is at the head of the executive committee, has had a very great portion of committee, has had a very great portion of the work of arrangements upon his hands and the success of the trip is largely due to his efforts. His labors in behalf of the league are thoroughly appreciated by all of the members.

He is Charles Sumner Clarke— don't forget the "e" and he is sure to make everybody with whom he comes in contact smiling and happy, no matter what the provocation may be to the contrary. Two of the most notable speeches of the Press Club banquet were made after 1 o'clock, after the banqueters had begun to grow weary of much talking. These speeches were made by Messrs. F. H. Richardson and H. E. W. Palmer, two of Atlanta's most effective young orators, and the warm reception accorded their speeches delivered at such a late hour, was a great compliment to the young men.

Mr. Richardson championed the cause of the copy producers, and he did it eloquently and with great effect. Mr. Howell's intro duction of him caught the attention of the crowd, and the first few words that Mr. Richardson uttered chained their interest and they followed him throughout, frequently stopping him by clamorous applause. He paid a high tribute to women in literature, and spoke of Mrs. Humphrey Ward and George Eliot in terms that brought cheers from the ladies present. Mr. Richardson's effort was fervid and impassioned, and was as good as anything he has ever done. It added another bright laurel to his wreath as an orator. Mr. Palmer was next to the last speak-er on the programme, and his topic was Atlanta's exposition. The exposition could not possibly have had a better herald. In tones and terms eloquent and impressive Mr. Palmer told of Atlanta's great undertaking, and so great was his earnestness and enthusiasm that he soon had the crowd on his side, and when he started to close he was greeted with deafening cries to "Go on, go on!" Coming at such a late hour this demand was encouraging and flattering.

The New York delegation has among its members one of the most prominent young politicians in New York in the person of Hon. John A. Hennessy, who has for several years represented a Brooklyn district in the general assembly. Mr. Hennessy is one of the brightest of the younger newspaper men in New York, and although he has for ten years past been a member of The Mail and Express editorial staff as city editor and as an editorial writer, he is a democrat with a big D. But he has been in the business department and especially in that important branch of the work represented by the press associations for a number of years. Helen H. Gardner, of the Press League has accepted the invitation of the Nine-teenth Century Club, of this city, to address the women of the city on questions of interest to them, at the Church of Our Father, Unitarian, on Thursday afternoon at clock. All are invited.

This lady is, perhaps, the most intellect-al woman in the American tiara of literary jewels. Her broad views and deep re-search into all questions pertaining to wo-manhood will appeal to the heart and head of each one of her sex individually. To those who have read her books, especially her "Facts and Fictions of Life," it is needless to say, "Go and hear her." To those who have not read her, an hour under her influence will instill into them truths of vital importance as women, wives and mothers. As a novellst she has few equals; as an essayist, no superior upon the topics she has handled ungioved for the benefit and welfare of her sex. As an ora-tor it has been said of her, "No braver roice was ever raised, no clearer note was ever struck for woman's honor or child-hood's purity." She will not speak for ef-fect, but out of her great heart and soul. She is an American of Americans, and belongs to both north and south. Her work is for the good of woman, and, therefore, not sectional. We may, however, be proud of her as southern born, for Virginia is her native state. Born at Stony Mead, the ancestral home of her parents, near Winchester, in the early sixtles, she is still a young woman. Yet as novelist and essayist her fame ranks foremost for vigor and boldnes of style, as well as brilliancy and force of expression. Her father was Rev. Alfred G. Chenoweth, and her mother Katherine Peel, niece of the illustrious Sir Robert Peel. Her earliest ancestor on her father's side was Arthur Chenoweth, having come to Maryland in the year 1635, where, for honorable service, he was given a grant of land by Lord Baltimore, sixth Lord Fairfax. Her great grandfather, John Chenoweth, married Hannah Cromwell, great granddaughter of Oliver Cromwell. Her paternal grandmother was a daughter of Judge John Davenport, of Maryland, and from this branch of her ancestry she is a direct deseendant of the sixth Lord Baltimore. Her father was a cousin to General Strother (Porte Crayon), her grandmother a sister and was a joily place.

A good many people contributed to the success of the 'cue. Will and Sam Venable were everywhere directing the whole affair. Walter Crosby had general charge of the preparation and the serving of the solids and liquids. Dick Rust, Judge Brown and other members of the 'Cue Club were valuable aids, as were Jeff Dunwoody, Jim Johnson, Cap Joyner and a number of others. All deserve credit, for all helped make it a success.

and Lead Were the Weakest. NEW YORK May 2.-Speculation at the stock exchange was very irregular in its course today. At the opening the Industrials were depressed by sales for the long and short accounts, Sugar fell 1% to 104. Lead, Chicago Gas and Whisky also scored losses at this time. The railway list was depressed and fell off anywhere from 34 to 13% per cent, Louisiville and Nashville leading. This stock was influenced by the loss in net earnings of March, of $12,115.
Reading then developed a marked weakness, the common falling 1% to 16%, while the junior bonds declined ½@2 per cent. The formation of a new committee to rep-resent the intest of the general mortgage endholders and the announcement that the bencholders and the announcement that the old committee would press their claim even to the extent of demanding the fore-closure of the mortgage accounts for the heaviness of the securities, General Electric and Lead at this time weakened, the r selling down 1% to 38% and the lat-to 39. The last hamed was adverse-uenced by rumors that the common stockholders will have to wait for their dividend until the adjournment of congress, even if they get it then. In the last half hour of business, Sugar loomed into promi-mence, and on large transactions rose rapdly to 10614, a gain of 21/2 per cent as com pared with the lowest of the day. This strengthened the general list for gains, but the closing was very irregular. Net changes show gains of 14.0% per cent in some of the active stocks, and losses of about 14.

Financial Gossip. Dow. Jones News Company by Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager: The strength of Burlington and Quincy Tuesday was attributed to the squeeze in the shorts and there was a sentiment that the Grangers had had about all the decline they were going to have.

The realization in Sugar was continued. but the bulls on the Industrials were as confident as ever of much higher prices. The leading bulls attached great importance to Judge Brewer's decision denying state rights to tax interstate commerce in any form. This decision with the tariff progress they were confident would bring the public into the street. The fears created by the Coxeyites and the strike have disappeared.

St. Paul earnings are expected to be poor but the gross losses have lost their terrors in view of the universal saving in expenses.

Foreign and Dometic News Company Traders and Dometic News Company: Traders are inclined to look for a somewhat better market, and they think there will be increased activity in the railroad stocks, specially as the loan crowd shows that the short interest has by no means been eliminated and that the outstanding contracts in Western Union, St. Paul, Rock Island, Burlington and Quincy, Missouri Pacific and Atchison foot up a good many thousand thares.

It is likewise asserted by competent judges that there is an extensive outstanding short interest in all the large cities, so that if there could be any concerted action on the bull side, even though May conditions are inimical to a pronounced movement, the covering would result in a general ap-preciation of 165 points.

The American Cotton Oil Company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend at the rate of 6 per cent per annum in its preferred stock. The books close May 15th and reopen June 4th.

The stock market was heavy on rumors of heavy shipments of gold by Saturday's steamer, the consignment being estimated as high as $4,000,000.

Chicago Special: Judge Tuley has re-fused to hear the argument in the applica-tion of Attorney General Moloney for an injunction against the Chicago Gas and against the Fidelity Trust Company, of Philadelphia. Judgedis will conse-quently hear the arguments, and is expect-ed to set a day some time today.

Louisville and Nashiville earnings for the nonth of March decreased $12,115.

Atwood Violett & Co's. Cotton Letter.

By private wire to J. C. Knox, manager—
NEW YORK, May 2—The figures of the New Orelans exchange yesterday were very demoralizing to the iong interest at Liverpool as well as in this market, showing that from April 27th to April 30th there came into signt 40,000 bales, and the total amount in signt at the end of April was 7,101,000 bales, against 5,272,000 last year. There came into sight after yesterday last year 428,000. What will come into sight after April 30th this year is an unknown quantity.
This market stood very well at the open ing, considering the decl.ne of 4-643. at Liverpool, but a further liquidation of the long interest and heavy selling by a prominent operator here forced the market down 5 points lower. There has been a good deal of covering by several parties prominently identified with the short side, and thus a large interest on both sides has been taken out of the market. Muouing at Liverpool was 4d. or 5-64d. lower than last year, July-August is 321-64d. or 59 American points below this day last year. Our Liverpool cable said: 'The market declined in consequence of bulls selling out their purchases and the dullness of trade; also because of a lack of confidence. Do not think speculation strong enough to sustain the market.' Spot sales were larger today than yesterday at Liverpool, but the spot business in this country is not on a scale to indicate much activity, and yet exports continue large, being today 15,000 baies. This, however, is cotton which was bought some time since and which is just now finding its way out-of the country.
The summer months here seem to be helpless to a great extent, because the stock here is 240,000 bales, although some 14,000 smaller than last year, but with the prospect of tenders each month as they mature there is the certainty before the buyer of either having to sell out his contracts before they mature or else to take the cotton itself. In the meantime, we shall have crep prospects as the controlling feat Atwood Violett & Co's, Cotton Letter Lipsed steady, a les 81,200 bales. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cot'on Circular.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Summary of Hubbard, Price & Co.'s cotton letter: The decline in Liverpool this morning was greater than any one looked for, and seemed to indicate that liquidation had set in abroad on the idea that a large portion of the American crop would be exported to Liverpool for sale in that market, which is already thought to hold at least 400,000 bales of stock more than will be needed by the English spinners to the 1st of October. Our market opened weak at 9 points lower than last evening, subsequently declined 3 points additional, from which there was a slight rally. The long cotton which was pressed for sale this morning seems to have passed into the hands of stronger parties, as it has disappeared from the market in a manner which cannot at the moment be traced. It certainly has not passed into the hands of outside holders, nor was the short interest large enough to absorb all the offerings. Under the pressure of long liquidation the market broke badly during the afternoon and closed weak at the lowest prices of the year. The sentiment of the trade is one of discouragement, because of the absence of any support to values for speculation or export. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cot'on Circular.

Semi-Weekly Crop Movement.

NEW ORLEANS, May 2.—Semi-weekly movement at thirteen leading interior towns: Receipts, 7,262 bales, against 5,569 last year; shipments, 13,771 bales, against 13,550 last year; stock, 142,837, against 218,-218 last year. Actual average, weight of 6,406,541 bales of the cotton crop, embracing port receipts and overland, eight months ended April 30th, 499,99-100 pounds per bale, against 503 16-100 pounds per bale last year. Detailed averages are as follows: Texas, 521 58-100 pounds; Louisiana, 502 99-100, increase of 82-100 pounds; Alabama, 499, the same as last year; Georgia, 484 42-100, decrease of 176-100 pounds; South Carolina, 487 66-100, increase of 2 pounds; North Carolina, 487 88-100, increase of 591-100 pounds; Virginia, 487 66-100, increase of 29-100 pounds; Virginia, 487 66-100, increase of 29-100 pounds; Tennessee, including Memphis, St. Louis and overland, 506 1-100, decrease of 5-100 pounds; net decrease for the whole as compared with the close of April last year 317-100 pounds.

Riordan & Co's. Cotton Letter. NEW YORK, May 2.—(Special.)—It was the old story today—too much cotton, no demand for spots and nobody wanting to invest in contracts, holders selling out at a loss, the shorts covering only to regret afterward that they had done so, and prices closing at the lowest, after a net decline as compared with yesterday's final quotations of 16 points. August opened at 7:19, rallied to 7:21 and then broke badly. During the day there were occasional reactions. railied to 7.21 and then broke badly. During the day there were occasional reactions of a few points, but these were only the preludes to further spells of weakness. August closed at 7.12 bid, with the tone steady at the decline. The liquidation was heavy. Unless Liverpool should slump very sharply tomorrow there ought to be some reaction from our terrible and continuous decline, but the bulls today seemed helpless and almost hopeless.

The Sun's Cotton Review The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Cotton declined 15 to 17 points, closing steady. Sales, 161,800 bales. Liverpool declined 3 to 4 points, closing easy. Spot sales 10,000 bales at easier but unchanged prices. Manchester duil. New Orleans declined 12 to 18 points. Spot cotton here 1-16c lower. Sales, 391 bales for spinning; deliveries on contract, 1,000 bales. There was a decline of 1-16c at Galveston, Mobile, Savannah and St. Louis, and 3c at New Orleans and Charleston. New Orleans sold 1,800 bales. Memphis sold 750, Charleston 485 and Galveston none. Now Orleans closed firm. Memphis received fifty-nine bales, and shipped 446. St. Louis received 150 and shipped 1,622. Houston received 415 and shipped 2,088. Rain is much needed in Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, North Carolina and South Carolina. Georgia reports no damage from drought. Port receipts £,412 bales, agginst 14,595 this day last week 21,027 against 24,290 thus far last week. The signal service predicted dry weather for the next twenty-four hours in the cotton belt. The estimated receipts at New Orleans are 500 against 714 on the same day last week, and 1,261 last year.

Today's features: Depression in Liverpool; generally favorable weather and crop reports, a liberal crop movement, large supplies and dulness of trade everywhere, caused a renewal of long liquidation which brought about a sharp decline, and 'the market closed at the lowest figure of the day.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The market for wheat was not a broad one today. There were two very weak spots in it, but the predominating tone was from steady to firm, the net result of the trade being a loss of \(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \) to \(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \) in the price. The start was weak, and there seemed to be a determined effort to break values. They were forced below puts within the first fifteen minutes, but rebounded with a decided vim. From that time until very near the close, when another dip occurred, there was a good tone to the market. The crowd bought too much wheat and subsequently sold out, causing the late decline. The close was steady, with the loss mentioned above. The range on July was between \(\frac{59}{2}\text{c} \) can do \(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \) under yesterday.

Corn, although not particularly active, was strong throughout. Shorts found reason for covering their open trades in the fact that one party absorbed all the May deliveries of yesterday. Outside of this influence there was nothing remarkably bullish in the situation. Business was entirely of a local character. July sold between 39\(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \) and 38\(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \), and closed \(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \) higher than yesterday, at 38\(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \). There was a fair demand for cash corn, prices ruling about \(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \) lower and closing steady.

Oats were strong. The shorts seemed to force the market up on themselves. Cash oats were steady. The close on futures was about \(\frac{1}{2}\text{c} \) higher than yesterday.

Provisions were in a state bordering on stagnation throughout the entire session. The opening weakness was the result of a definic in rices for live borge at the condet.

Provisions were in a state bordering on stagnation throughout the entire session. The opening weakness was the result of a didne in prices for live hogs at the yards. Businss was extremely light and the tendency of values was toward a lower level. There was practically no support to the market. The close was 20c lower than yesterday for July pork, 7½c lower for July lard and loc lower for July ribs.

Lamson Bros. & Co's Grain Letter.

By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager: CAICAGO, May 2.—Favorable weather bunetins, lower cables, large Argentine shipments for the last half of April (a,250,000 bushels), and continued heavy liquidation on the part of holders made the feeling very weak the fore part of the session, July seiling at 59c., the lowest price yet recorded for that option. During the latter part of the session, nowever, the feeling became a little stronger on a good cash business here and in the east, and continued good seaboard clearances, over 550,000 bushels. Primary receipts were again light, 160,000 bushels, against and 16 foreign markets lower. Outside trade continues light, and the market appears mostly in the hands of local speculators, who are nearly all bearish, and is therefore almost wholly without support. This was particularly noticeable during the last few minutes when the small reaction was lost as soon as the buying by scalpers had been satisfied. This decline is making a good export inquiry, and clearances will undoubtedly continue large, but until prices are given better support and large parties become good buyers holders will not receive much comfort even around these low values. Corn was inclined to be weak in sympathy with wheat, but oats continued firm at a seather and the seather and the particles of the continued and the seather a s..ght advance.

There has been free selling of wheat by Walker, Wrenn, Counselman and Day. There was buying early by Mitchell, but the selling later has been his. The buying at 59c. was against puts.

There was a good inquiry for cash wheat for domestic and foreign account. Armour was a buyer of July wheat in a moderate way, and sold 150,000 bushels No. 2 spring at 1c. over May. The opinion seems to be that L. Bloom has been dumping long wheat. The weather map indicated a cold wave last night for all the upper end of the spring wheat region.

A dispatch from St. Louis says there was considerable alarm manifested upon the floor of the merchant's exchange in St. Louis yesterday when the decision was announced in the case of Connors against Black, tried at Memphis, Mo. The court holds that in all sales made upon margins, unless both parties actually intend to receive or deliver the amount of grain itself involved in the contract, the transaction is gambling, pure and simple, and the money so lost can be recovered. Black bought oats through Connors, a broker, and after putting up $5,000 in margins, to protect his option, defaulted on further payments and was sued by Connors, who carried the oats through to a loss. The finding of the court is based on a decision of the state supreme court.

the nice occurred at an early hour and the information was secured by telephone but the hour and the distance made it hard to secure the exact facts. The insurance carried covered all of the rolling stock of the road and the bridges from Marietta to Knox-ville, the policy being written as such policies are usulally written. The principal loss which the road sustained was on the engines and cars, amounting perhaps engines and cars, amounting perhaps to $35,000. This loss was covered in the policy. It was not intended to indicate that the loss was the amount of insurance given, $127,000, but that the policy carried by the road was that amount. The companies are now adjusting the loss.

DECLARED A TRUST.

Attorney General Mahoney's Decision on a Tobacco Combination. Chicago, Ill., April 30.—Attorney General Moloney has declared the American Tobac-co Company a corporation, organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey, to be a trust, doing business in violation of the lay of the state, and will commence proceedings in chancery against the concern, its agents and servants, for the purpose of prohibiting them from doing business in Illinois. Evidence on this point was submitted to the attorney general several months ago, but it was not until noon today that his opinio was prepared and ready for announcement. It is couched in vigorous language. The corporations forming the trust are the Allen & Ginter Company, of Virginia; W. S. Kimbáll & Co., of Rochester, N. Y.; Good-win & Co., of New York; W. Dukes Sons & Co., of North Carolina, and the Kinney Tobacco Company. The opinion says that this company is one of the most ingenious, odious, dangerous and gigantic trusts in America, and that means in the world. It has attempted to take the law into part-nership. It assumes a legal guise, in order to conceal its nefarious purposes, or that it might more conveniently and successfully carry out its illegal and vicious ends. It verifies the old saying that 'devils, when first formed take pleasing shapes."

The corporation was conceived in fraud and habituated by a resort to duplicity and corcealment. It does not pretend to be otherwise. er than a trust, and consequently does no assume virtue that it has not. Hence it is more frank and open than its neighbors, the Standard Oil trust, the whisky trust, the school furniture and book trust. Such a combination, though clothed in habili-ments loaned it by the state of New Jersey cannot, nevertheless, violate the laws of Illinois nor longer impose on its people. It is doing business in violation of the state statutes, and is obnoxious to the common law. It is the duty of the attorney general to take the initiative in prohibiting it from doing business in this state.

After rendering his opinion Attorney General Moloney said that he would file the bill in chancery against the company tomorrow or Wednesday, and that two hundred leading business men of Chicago would be made parties to the suit.

Cases Against the Gas Men Chicago, Ill., April 30.—Judge Windes this morning consented to take up the quo warranto proceedings commenced by Attorney General Moloney against the gas trust, and issued summons for the representatives of the defendant corporation to appear a week from Wednesday. Immediately thereafter, the attorney general fired a still more powthe attorney general fired a still more pow-erful broadside into the trust by filing a bill in chancery against the gas companies, and the Fidelity Insurance Trust and Safe Deposit Company, of Philadelphia, the in-trnt of which is to prevent the former from serding and the latter from receiving any money intended as distribution of gas trusts chividends. It also prevents the Philadel-pnia company from voting gas trust stock or interfering in any way in the management of the gas companies.

The Evolution of the Daughter.

From The Contemporary Review.

A great deal of the ill-health of our delicate girls arises from repression of their young energy. The boys, too, would be hysterical if their youth were hedged in with so many conventional restraints that there would be no room left for self-restraint, if everything they wore, every word they spoke, every youthful grace and beauty, every intellectual endowment, were habitually looked upon and openly spoken of as making them more salable articles. These things belong only to the ages of slavery, and I would once and for all protest that where there is a "market" mar-

Marriage is the free union of the free. Marriage is the free union of the free, taking upon themselves such limitations of their freedom as will lead them into the highest realms of liberty. Liberty implies law, discerned to be the best for curselves and our neighbors, the guarantee of a personal and national freedom. This is the sort of freedom, this is the sort of liberty, which has become a part of the English man's very self-consciousness, and it is the same liberty which our girls are claiming, are taking and are using well. It seems certain that the result must be to restrain the license into which men have turned their liberty. In fulfilling the logical sequence which must give to a nation free women to stand by the side of free men, our English girls are also carrying on the destined work of England for the world. With grievous and daring exceptions the example and influence of England have, on the whole, brought hope and light and order to brutalized and enslaved nations-at least to the men of those nations. Here and there, even in the darkest recesses of paganism, a hint, a gleam of the freedom which Christianity means for women, has reached the most down-trodden and tortured of the women of the world. They groan with a new apprehension of their misery, and it will lie in the hands of our daughters, freed themselves, to carry freedom to other women.

RAILROAD NEWS.

The Macon Meeting and What the Purpose Is.

A MOVEMENT FOR' FAVORABLE LAWS

tral Discussed by L. and N. L. wyers. Other News of the Rail.

Next Sunday is the day for the great rail-

It is to be a meeting of committees from the various divisions of the railway labor organizations in this state recently appointed to confer and appoint a general committee to go to New York to attend the national convention of committees from all divisions of these organizations.

The New York meeting is for the purpose of arriving at some sort of plan of legislation for the protection of the railway employes of this country. The men say they want stricter laws with respect to settlements of labor quarrels and troubles that end in strikes and general disorder.

They claim that if they had some strict law requiring in every case of trouble between the railway officials and the employes a settlement by the immediate appointment of a board of arbitration and submitting everything to them, there would never be any strikes, for the decision of the boards of arbitration would be fair and just and the men and their employes would have to abide them.

Two weeks ago there were meetings held by every division of the Order of Railway Conductors in Georgia, and committees were appointed to visit Macon next Sunday to take some step looking to the carrying out of the plans that have been menfloned for the New York meeting. All of the other railway labor orders in the state were requested to send delegations to the Macon meeting, too, and have met the demand by appointing committees to be there.

The railway conductors took the leading hand in this state to carry out the general plan for holding the New York meeting. The other labor organizations, however, have fallen in line, and it is now easy to predict that the state of Georgia will be vell represented at the national conven-

The chief thing that is planned for the New York meeting is to move off with some organized effort to get congress, this term if possible, to take some action in favor of the railroad employes of the land by pass-ing a law making it compulsory that whenever troubles arise between railroad officials and employes of the line with regard t wages and salaries, and so forth, a board of arbitration must be at once appointed and the case tried before these arbitrators. The men who are at work for the further ance of this idea say that they mean noth-ing like a warfare against the railroad companies. On the contrary they claim that if some such law can be enacted there will be smoother times with the companies and the men who are at work for them. "If a railroad cuts the salaries of its men," said one of the Atlanta conductors yesterday in explanation of the movement, 'and the men after a squabble quit the road and there is a tie up, who does the quarrel hurt most? Not the railroad company, not the employes, but the people who have goods to ship from point to point and who have to travel. The evil is a public one, not a private one, when the men go out on a strike. Now, then if we can stop all this kind of business in this country so much the better, and that is what the New York meeting of railroad men is for in its last

The meeting of the different committees to be held at Macon next Sunday will get the Georgia end of the scheme under or-ganization. If the plan is not put to work before congress adjourns, then it is the pur-pose of the railway employes of this state to raise an active campaign before the to raise an active campaign before the to raise an active campaign before the Georgia legislature to get such a bill passed The Macon meeting will be held in the

That Big Suit.

The firm of Helm & Bruce, attorneys for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, has given out a statement with reference to the reports that have recently been sailing around among the newspapers of the south to the effect that there would be a great squabble between that line and the Illinois Central over the law suit recently said to have been filed by the former against the latter involving $16,000,000. The statement is as follows:

"The report is all wrong—there is no row on, as the publication would lead one to believe. The facts are, that after the bill was filed word was received from the purchasing committee in New York, of which Mr. August Belmont is a member, asking that the case be not pushed, as it was thought that an amicable settlement could be made outside of the courts, and we have determined to let the matter rest a while. When the suit was filed we expected a settlement outside time courts, but as the stockholders' meeting of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern, was to be held May 2d, only a few days away, we decided to bring the suit while there was time. Since the filing of the bill prospects for an amicable adjustment are better, and we consequently have decided, as I have stated, to let the whole thing rest. One of the special reasons for allowing it thus to subside is that the stockholders' meeting has been postponed until the middle of June." is as follows:

Opening of the Seashore Resorts. The East Tennessee is getting things in good shape for the seashore travel that is good shape for the seashore travel that is expected to be so heavy this season.

The Cumberland hotel on Cumberland island has already had its opening, having thrown its doors open to the public on the 1st of this month. This year it will be under the management of L. T. Shackelford and has been nicely renovated and repaired. There will be no charge on the local line this year from the hotel down to the beach. The season promises to be a great one. Hotel St. Simon will this year be under the management of C. H. Dunn, former poprietor of the Carleton hotel at Jackson-ville. There will be new steamiers from Brunswick to both islands and everything will be lovelier than ever for the gay will be lovelier than ever for the gay throngs of pleasure-seekers who go to the seashore for the season.

The East Tennessee proposes to put on its cheap Saturday night rates to Brunswick and the seashore resorts within the next few days.

The Plant System Is O. K. In the recent race between the Richmond and Danville and the Coast Line from Jacksonville to New York the Plant system Showed well.

Out as far as they went the run was particularly good, and the men of the Plant system, who have had things under consystem, who have had things under control in this race have reason to be congratulated. The average time of the Plant system in the race was 47.7 miles per hour; of the Atlantic Coast Line 38.4; of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac 31.9; Pennsylvania (railroad 39.5. If the lines north of Florence had kept up the speed that was made from Jacksonville to that point the train would have gone into New York at 9 o'clock a. m instead of 1:17 p. m. at 9 o'clock a. m instead of 1:17 p. m.

CAMP NORTHEN.

The Militiamen of Georgia Preparing to Pitch Their Tents.

IMPORTANT ORDER ISSUED

What Troops Will Be Stationed There, and How They Will Be Governed. Some Interesting Facts.

Big preparations are being made for the annual encampment of the state militia. On the morning of May 21st, the bugle call will be sounded, and the Georgia militiamen will pitch tent on the outskirts of Griffin. The encampment this year promises to be one of the most successful ever held in Georgia.

held in Georgia.

Since last year the forces have been organized in good shape, and they will go in prepared to stand up under the strictest inspection and discipline.

inspection and discipline.

Georgia's militia has made big strides during the past year, and has attained a standard of general excellence unequaled by that of any other state.

The following organizations have been assigned to camp: From May 21st to May 30—The Second regiment infantry, the First Battallon infantry; Company A, third regiment infantry (Poolen Light Infantry.) From June 5th to June 14th-The fourth regiment infantry; the fifth regiment infantry, including the Fifth Machine Gun Platoon, unhorsed; and the first battalion cavalry, mounted. cavalry, mounted.

A general order has been prepared by Adjutant General Kell relative to the affairs of the encampment. This order will be sent out to the different companies throughout the state. Here are some of its most important specifications:

No company or troop will be allowed to attend the camp of instruction with less than twenty-five (25) enlisted men and two (2) officers; nor with more than forty-five (45) men and cooks (cooks not to exceed two (2 to each company.) In case of a machine run platoon fifteen (15) enlisted men; and of a signal corps at ten (10) enlisted men.

The miximum limit forty-five (45), will in no case be exceeded, nor will any man of a command not a regularly enlisted man, attend the encampment.

Officers-elect, but not duly commissioned, will not accompany their commands to camp, as without commissions they cannot exercise; nor will such an officer-elect ap-pear in the uniform of a commissioned officer until duly commissioned.

-Enlisted men who have been elected officers, but who are without commissions at the time their commands go to camp, may accompany them, but only in the ca-pacity of enlisted men. Any command failing to report for service duty at camp shall be disbanded, unless good and sufficient reasons for such failure be rendered.

No man who is poor in health, who is convalescing from an illness when his command proceeds to camp, or who is physically unfit for active military service, will be allowed to attend the encampment. Com-pany commanders are charged with the proper execution of this order, that the possible sick report may not be encumbered with names of men unfit for duty for causes not incident to camp. Officers and men will be paid per diem of seventy-five 75 cents, in lieu of pay and commutation of rations. Commutation for forage will be allowed at the rate of twenty-five (25) cents per day per horse for field, staff and company of-ficers and men of the cavalry arm. Two cooks and one hostler will be allowed each regimental and unassigned bat-talion staff, and they will be paid the same per diem as that allowed enlisted mer. The horses required for the use of the filed officers of infantry, regimental staff officers and instructors will be hired and kept at camp by the quartermaster's department. Battalion staff officers of infantry will not

Field officers of infantry and regimental officers who may prefer to take their own personal mounts to camp will be allowed only the actual daily rate of horse hire, as determined by the quartermaster general; this being in lieu of transportation and

The only headgear allowed to be worn will be the forage cap, chaplain's hat and campaign hat. White and summer helmets will not be taken to camp.

Canvas leggings may be worn by regiments and battalions when fully supplied with the same. Russet or patent leather shoes will not be allowed; a broad-toed easy walking shoe should be worn. Full dress uniforms will not be taken to amp. Officers are forbidden to wear full camp. Officers are forbidden to wear full dress belt with the undress or service uni-

The purchase and issue of medical supplies and hospital stores is under the con-trol and supervision of the surgeon general and for these purposes expenditures will not exceed the sum of $100. The surgeon general will submit requisi-tion for such stores and supplies as may be required in addition to those now on haud; his requisition will fully set forth the amount and character of same on The senior medical officer present during a tour of duty will perform the duties of post surgeon; other surgeons present for duty will be subject to his orders under the general direction of the post commander; and all surgeons will be governed by the general regulations of the medical department and hospital and ambulance corps. Within twenty days after the termination of a tour of duty the post surgeon will re-port in writing through his post commander to the surgeon general on all matters concerning the medical department that may come under his observation during his our.

Officers of the medical department on duty with the above named regiments and unassigned battalions who may be unable to attend the encampment will immediately upon receipt by them of this order report the fact to the surgeon general, who will recommend other medical officers for the days with least the medical officers will be

Some General Regulations.

The following general regulations for the government of Camp of Instruction, when occupied by troops, are published for the information and guidance of all concerned, and the attention of all officers is specially called to them:

a. The camp is constituted a military post, and will be conducted in accordance with the rules governing military posts. b. The post commanders will prescribe in orders the hours for the duties to be performed; the military exercises to be executed and practiced in camp will be of a strictly practical nature; no reviews will be authorized except by orders from this office. c. All commands will be required to give particular attention to such schools of instruction as cannot be carried out at their respective stations—extend order exercises, outpost and picket duty, advanced guard duty, target practice and aiming drills, schools for the theoretical instruction of officers and non-commissioned officers.

d. Theoretical instruction in guard duty will be imparted to non-commissioned officers and privates by their respective company officers before going to camp.
c. Passes to be absent from camp will not be granted in such numbers as to interfere with practical work and instruction.

an organization in camp, will not be permitted in camp after tattoo.

They Hold Their Great Mass Meeting

Tonight.

The big mass meeting of the Sons of Confederate Veterans that will be need tonight at the Gate cay Guard's armory is one that no one of them can afford to miss. The questions that will be up for discus-sion are of the most vital interest to the local camp, and to the state organization at large.
Among these are: the perfection of the lo-

Among these are: the perfection of the local camp and the enrollment of more members in the same, and last, but by no means the most unimportant, the arranging of suitable plans by which the Confeuerate Soldiers' Home can be taken charge of and carried on by the voluntary subscriptions from every camp in the state.

There is no time to lose in arranging this last affair, as already the home is about to be sold by an order of the court, which will be granted at the next term of the superior court. Ine trustees of the home nave, at last, after repeated efforts, in be man, the home, decided to seil it and refund every collar of the money that was so generously subscribed to build and equip it to those who gave it.

The young men of Georgia are going to do something at this meeting that will stop this sale and brighten the chances of the home's being ultimately thrown wide open to the old soldiers, that they may pass their days in peace and comfort.

It is sad to tell, but 'tis the truth, and shows how urgent is the call for something to be done for the home when the very insurance on the building has, for the last quarter, been paid out of the private purses of several liberal members of the board of trustees. They had not one cent in the treasury to defray the expenses of even this.

Let every young man in rulton county goout to this meeting, join the Atlanta camp, and go to work for this noole purpose, and it will not be long before the spirit of their example will be all over the state and ald this cause more than can be estimated.

Remember the place is the Gate City Gua: d's armory on Peachtree street, tonight at 8 o'clock.

AT DEGIVE'S. The Huntley Company Drew Well

Last Night at DeGive's. "The Lost Cause, or a Daughter of the Corfederacy," was the title of the stirring multery drama which was presented last night at DeGive's opera house, by the Huntley-Farley Company. The play has a splendid plot and it is by far the best military drama which has been presented here for many secons. It was written by a southern gentleman and of course it ap-peals directly to the heart of every southern man. The curtain rose to the stirring strains of "Dixie," which put every one in a patriotic mood. The final battle scene was especially good.

The same play will be repeated at matinee today and tonight the four-act romantic drama "Mismated" will be produced. At matinee today the lady holding the lucky number will receive her choice of the beautiful dress paterns which are on exhibition at Rich's, and tonight $15 will be given to the person whose name will be taken from the box.

Weather Synopsis and Forecast. The weather was threatening, and there was a light sprinkle in Atlanta and vicinity yesterday afternoon. Similar weather prevailed in a few other sections of the country, but in no section was there reported much more than a sprinkle. Warm weather is still universal throughout the southern states, and in the northern states there is no cool weather reported except pretty well up towards Canada. In Rapid City, S. D., and in Chicago, the maximum temperature yesterday was only 50 degrees. As high as 90 degrees was re-ported in south Georgia. In Atlanta, the maximum was 83 degrees. Forecast for Georgia today: Generally fair, slight change in temperature. There is more life in one grain of wheat than there is in a bushel of chaff. The same axiom is equally true regarding Hood's Sarsaparilla as compared to many other remedies.

"AMONG THE OZARKS,"

"The Land of Big Red Apples" is an attractive and interesting book, handsomely illustrated with views of south M. ssouri scenery, including the famous Olden fruit farm of 3,000 acres, in Howell county. It pertains to fruit raising in that great fruit helt of America, the southern slope of the Ozarks, and will prove of great value, not only to fruit growers, but to every farmer and home-seeker looking for a farm and a home. Foremost Baking Powder in all the World.

World's Fair Medal and Diploma

AWARDED TO

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

The highest award was given on every claim, comprising superiority in leavening power, keeping properties, purity and excellence. The verdict has been given by the best jury ever assembled for such a purpose, backed by the recommendation of the Chief Chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., who made an elaborate examination and test of all the baking powder. This is pre-eminently the highest authority on such matters in America.

This verdict conclusively settles the question and proves that Dr. Trice's Cream Baking Powder is superior in every way to any other brand.

NOTE-The Chief Chemist rejected the Alum Powders, stating to the World's Fair jury that he considered them unwholesome.

"The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER is the standard for purity and perfection the world over, and is beyond comparison. Its purity and goodness are household words. Always full weight. Never varies. Never disappoints.

Dr. Price's is peculiarly adapted for export, as neither ong sea voyages nor climatic changes affect it. Will keep fresh and sweet for years.

It is a fact that certain envious manufacturers of Baking Powder, who lacked the temerity to even place their goods in competition with Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder at the World's Fair, have, since it closed, advertised that they actually received an award. To an enlightened, appreciative public, comment on such an unfair and reprehensible act is quite unnecessary.

How Cream of Tartar Is Made.

Creat of Tartar—which enters so largely into the manufacture of Dr. Price's Crem Baking Powder—is obtained from the tart wines of France, Germany, Auslia, etc. The Crude Tartar, called Argols, is deposited on the sides of the win casks during the fermentation of the wine. After the wine is drawn off this cystal deposit is removed, dried and exported to America, where the elaborate rocess of refining goes on, producing the snow-white crystals of Cream of Tarta Specimens of this product, in all its conditions, from the crude Argols i its original wine task to the purified and refined article embodied in Dr. Price's Ceam Baking Powder, were shown at the Price Baking Powder Company's Ite exhibit in the Agricultural Building, World's Columbian Exposition.

NOTE—The Creamof Tartar Refinery controlled by the Price Baking Powder Company s the most complete and extensive in the world.
